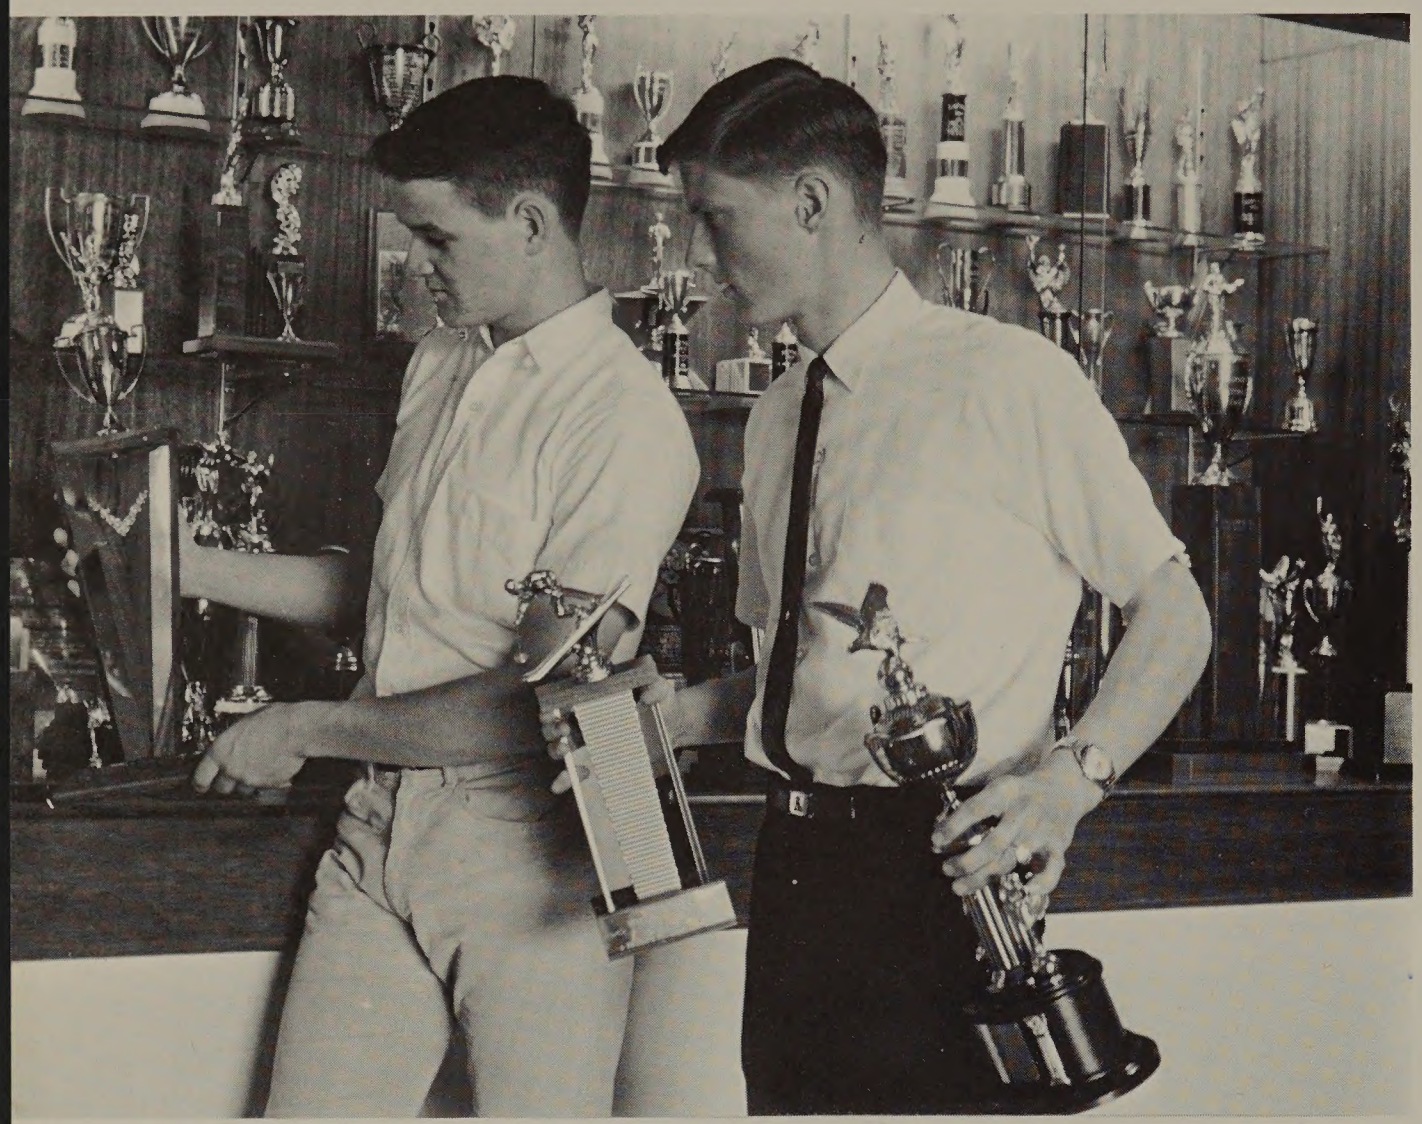
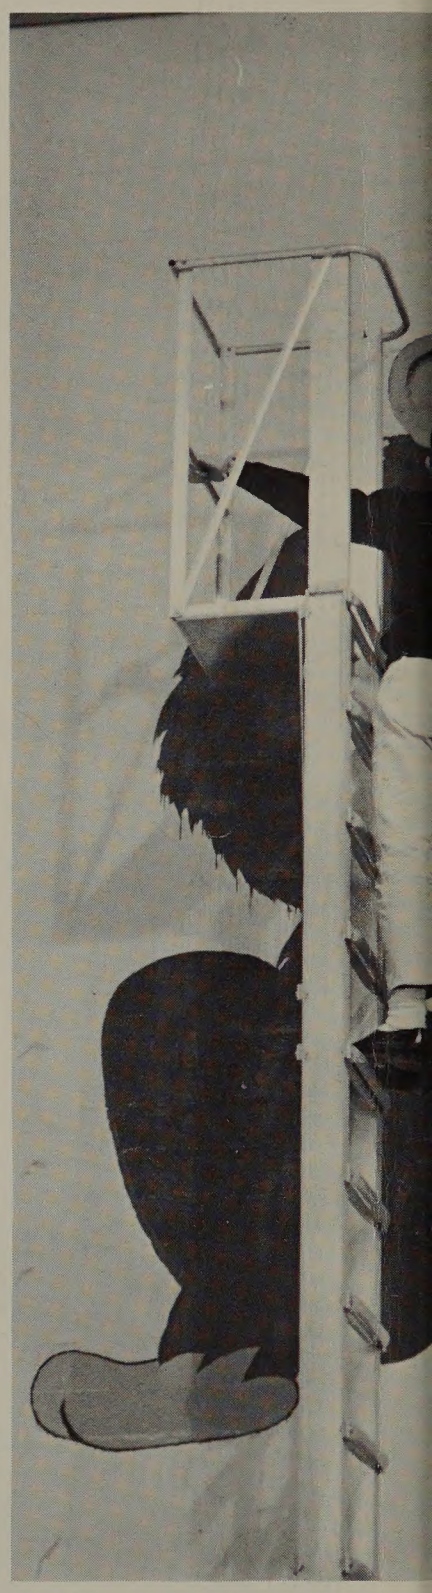
For Beaverton 1963-- A Trophy

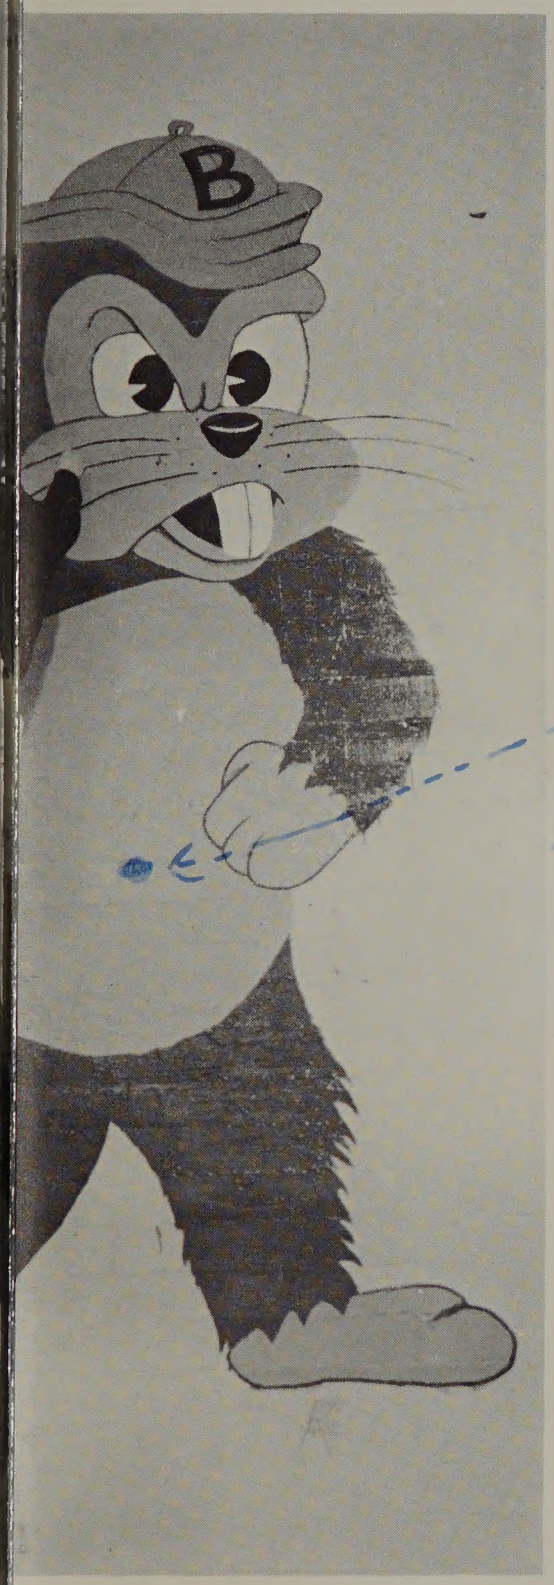




Just as Beaverton's student body presidents add these trophies to the school's trophy case, we add this book as a trophy to a year, a year that saw such things as . . .

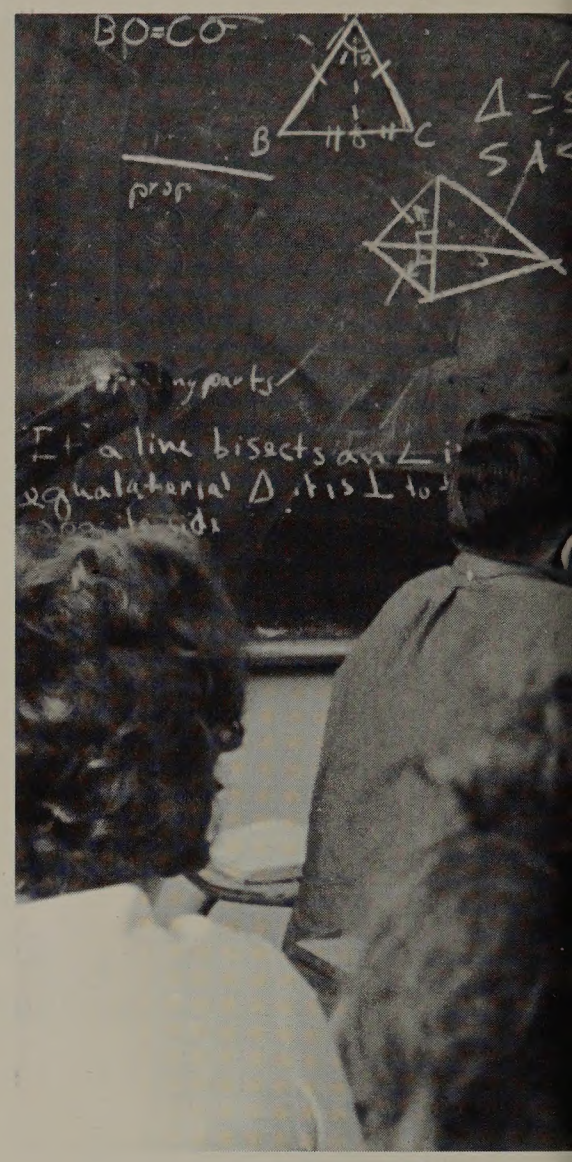
. . . A sophomore leap frog marathon to Forest Grove and a new world's record . . .

Beaverton! That is its name. And from September until June this is home for 1,750 students. Beaverton, first and foremost, is an educational institution, its purpose to supply to the student population the necessary background and knowledge needed to face today's college campus or labor force. But Beaverton is more. It's the thrill of a touchdown, the tenseness before a play, the excitement of an assembly, the suspense of elections, the gaiety of an after-game dance, the wonder of a formal and all that makes Beaverton a center for the crazy, wonderful world of the teenager. For this then—the academic and activity side, the spirit, the image, and the year of excitement, growth and controversy—a trophy.



. . . The addition of a long desired Beaver Mascot for the wall of the East Gym . . .

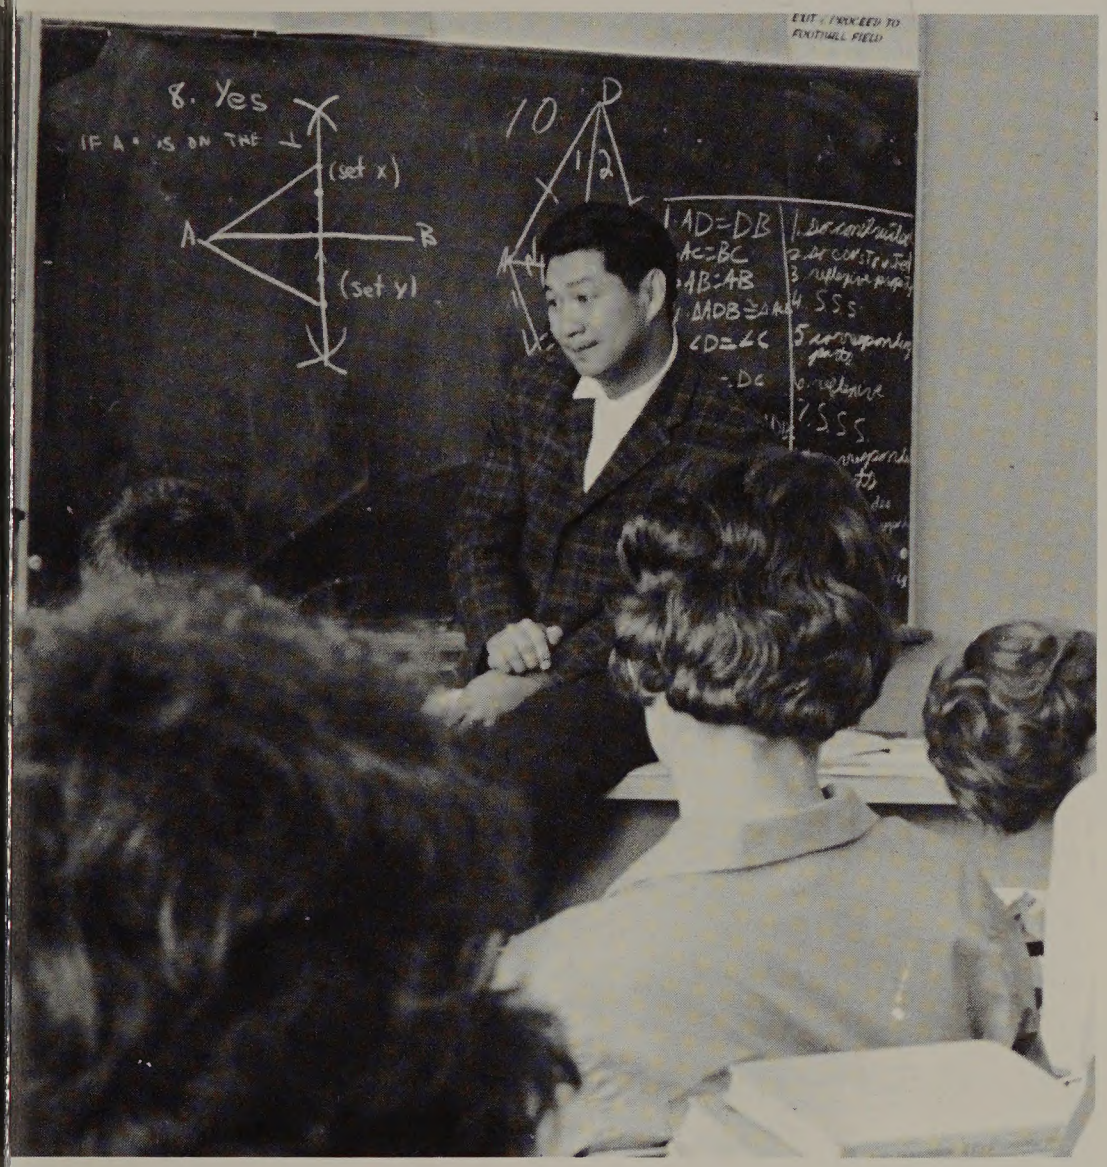
. . . And the element disruptions that played havoc with school attendance, the devastating Columbus Day Storm and the unexpected Late-January snowfall.



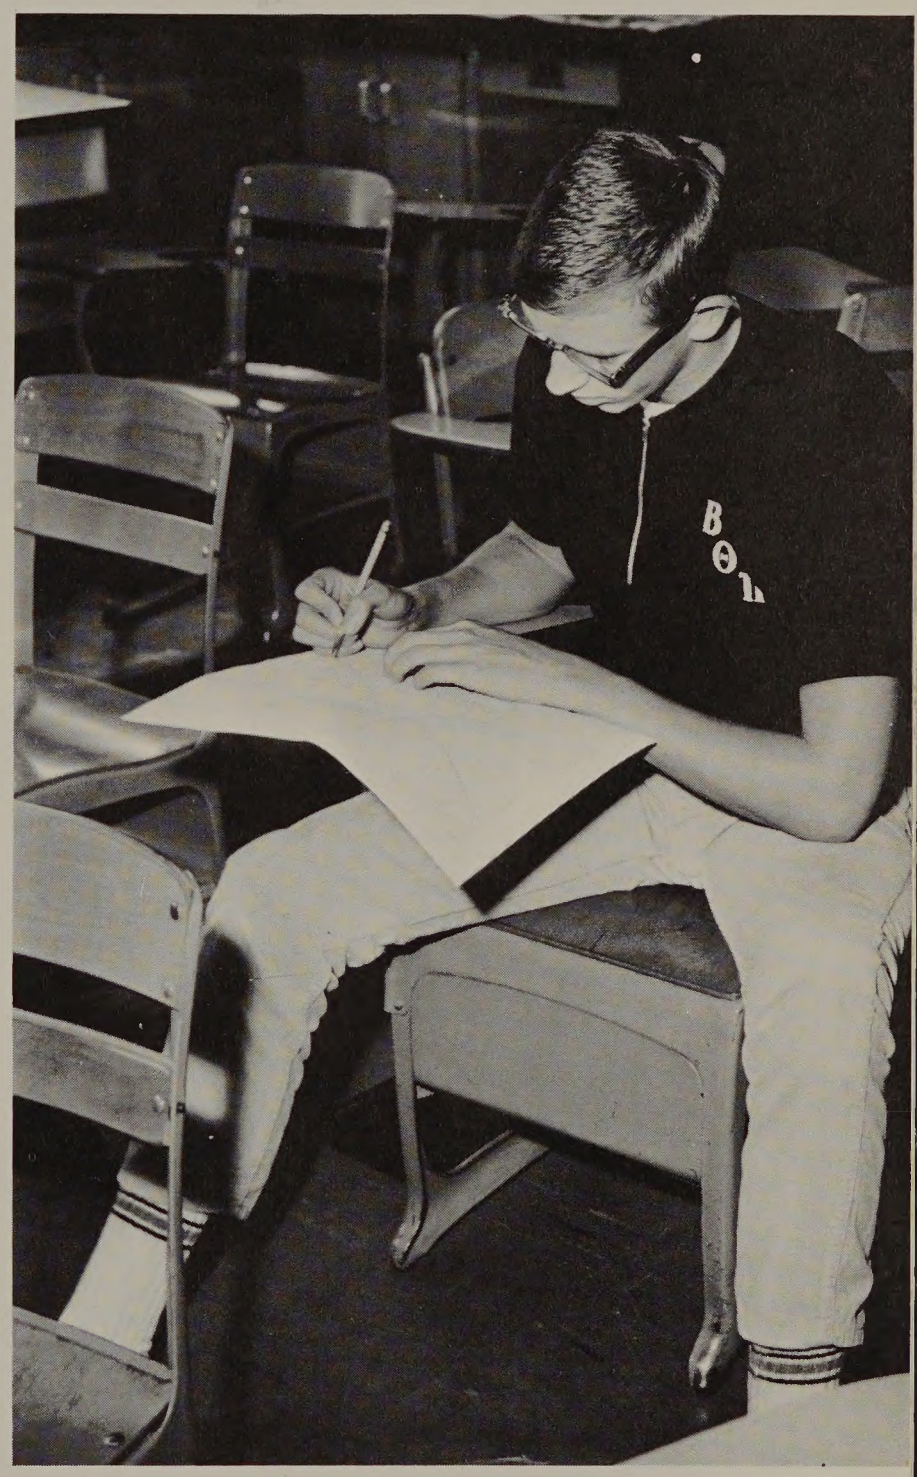
Academically Beaverton students were once again kept busy and on their toes, their attention focused on such endeavors as the study, by record, of Mark Twain. . .

From 8:00 A.M. to 3:30 P.M. Beaverton is alive with the murmur of discussion, the solitude of the lecture period, the action of experimentation and the quietness of study as the school day, the academic day works its way from beginning to end. Under the guiding eyes of Beaverton's 84-member faculty, students work toward graduation in courses ranging from General Math to Russian, P.E. to Home Economics and Biology to Number Theory. Although tiring and sometimes bothersome, the parade of homework, papers and tests suddenly becomes worthwhile when the mark of approval, a good grade, is accorded them. But the knowledge and experience gained by these efforts is the important thing, making the student a better person, more capable to cope with today's world.

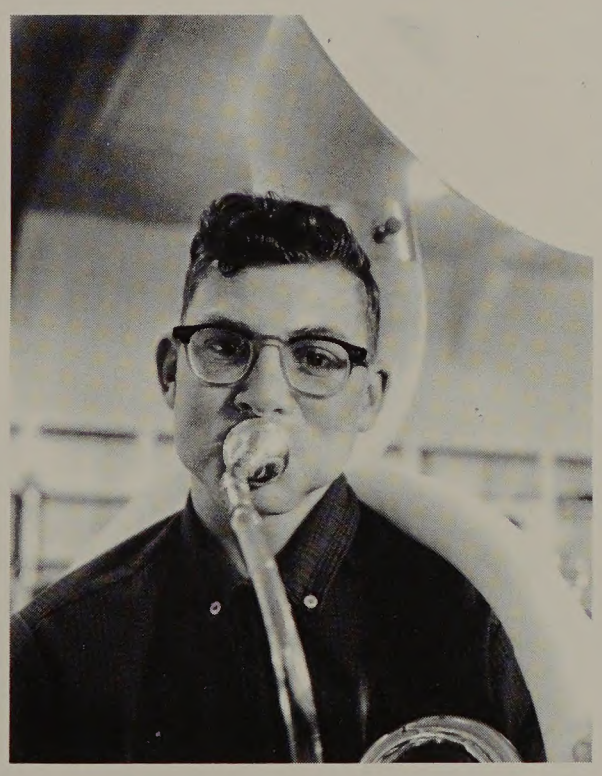
Beaverton-- The Road to Knowledge



. . . The discussion of the proof concerning a difficult geometry problem. . .



. . . Or the concentration of individual study, in this case the write-up of an after-school physics experiment.



. . . The daily, never-ending bout with the tuba. . .

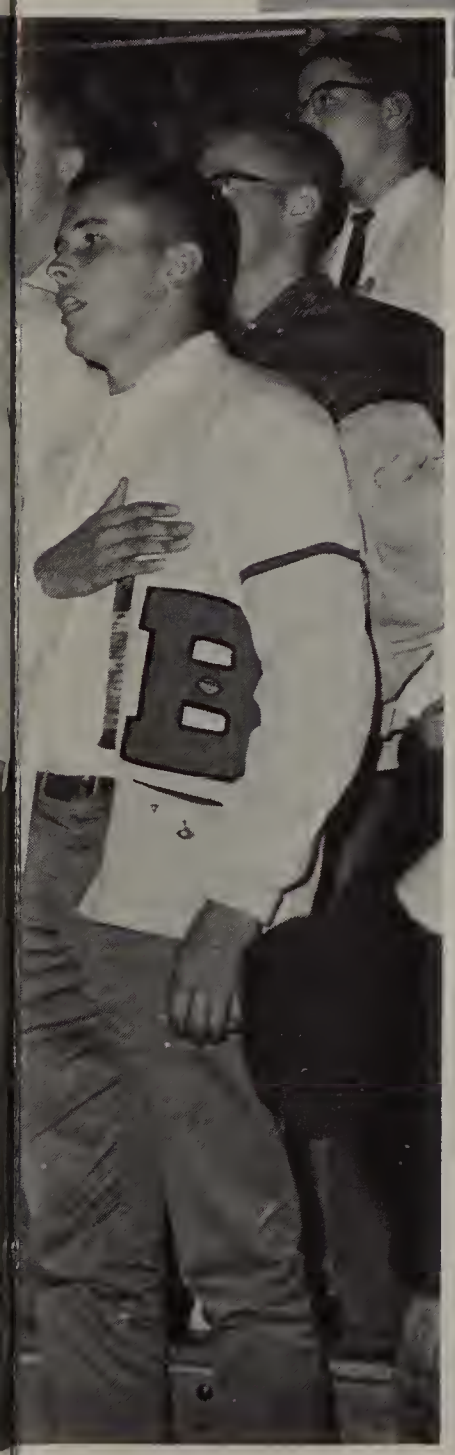
Beaverton-- The Feeling of Belonging

The academic day, while predominant, is not all there is to Beaverton, for Beaverton, in addition, is a social center where friends congregate to work on various activities and projects, continuing old traditions and establishing new ones. Events such as Hello Week, Homecoming and Spring Reign unite the student body and instill in the student a certain feeling of pride and belonging. Intra-school competition —the class battles for the spirit totem pole club, class and student body elections; and the individual contests for a first string position, a lead in a play or an acceptance into an honorary organization—build student character in readiness for today's competitive society. But these events, too, provide memories, memories that in many cases last a life-time.

. . . It's the saluting of the Flag before a pep assembly. . .

Beaverton, though, is more than just the classroom. It's being Homecoming parade chairman on the day of the Columbus Day Storm and on crutches at that. . .

. . . It's the contentment one receives in leaving school after basketball practice in your own car and with a good friend. . .

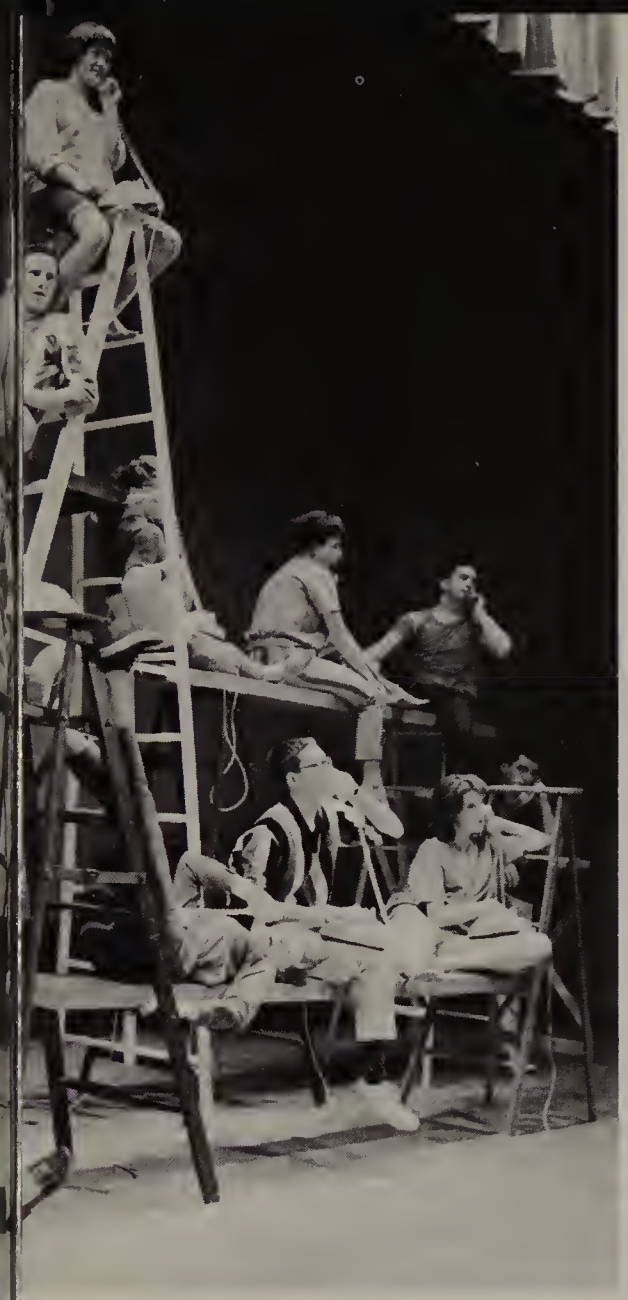


. . And it's the satisfaction of knowing that you voted for the right man.

At night Beaverton's complexion changes from the academic to the social as students purchase tickets to such events as. . .

. . . The Student Body Variety Show featuring acts like 'The Telephone Hour" from the Broadway Musical "Bye Bye Birdie". . .

. . . The Christmas Formal with its crystal trees and pink and white striped decor. . .



Beaverton-- A Ticket to Fun

Beaverton's social nature reaches its pinnacle at night-fall when the games, dances and plays attract student attention causing Monday's test, Wednesday's term paper, college and the uncertain future to temporarily but pleasantly fade from memory. This is the time when high school becomes fun, when spirits are high, unsquelched by authority. Fridays are game nights, the home ones followed by gay after-game dances, the away ones climaxed with noisy, boisterous trips home. On Saturdays come the formal and semi-formal dances and in many cases plays and concerts. When 11:00 P.M. arrives, however, all comes to a close, but with another game, another dance in the offing, Beaverton will not be closed for long.

. . . And a football game, rain and all, with the thrill of victory the ultimate reward.

Ed Bader-- A Teacher, A Coach, A Friend

A transplanted midwesterner who began to make annual treks to the Oregon country in the 1940's, Ed Bader became a full-time Oregonian in 1941 when he accepted his first teaching assignment at Beaverton High School. At that time, he was an educator of wide experience and versatility as he had taught in practically all subject areas from industrial arts to foreign languages and had served as superintendent of schools.

His first assignments at Beaverton were in the capacities of mathematics instructor and as an assistant in football, basketball and track. His first love athletically is track and his background shows that he was a record class performer in high school and college where he established standards which held up until 1959. Mr. Bader took over as head track coach in 1947 and his teams have been title contenders every year. His 1958 team won the state championship and he coached teams to high state finishes in 1956 and 1959. Numerous record holders have been members of his teams, including one national record holder.

A top flight teacher as well as a coach, this man is a dedicated educator, a true friend to students and athletes and is highly respected by his colleagues. Never one to pull punches, he expects maximum effort from all those with whom he associates, whether they be adults, students or athletes.

Mr. Bader is married and he and his wife, Dorothy, have one daughter. Ed and Dot are both ardent fishermen and have dipped lines in most of the fresh water streams and lakes of the state.

And so to Ed Bader, in recognition of eighteen years of outstanding service, on the athletic field and in the classroom, we happily and proudly, dedicate the 1963 BEAVER.

Mr. Bader takes time out from his busy schedule to confer with one of his athletes at the lunch table. Always a welcome visitor, Mr. Bader's words, sometimes jovial, sometimes serious, were greeted consistently with pleasure and respect.

As fine a teacher off the track as on it, Mr. Bader is shown here easing one of his algebra students' worries by explaining a difficult story problem.

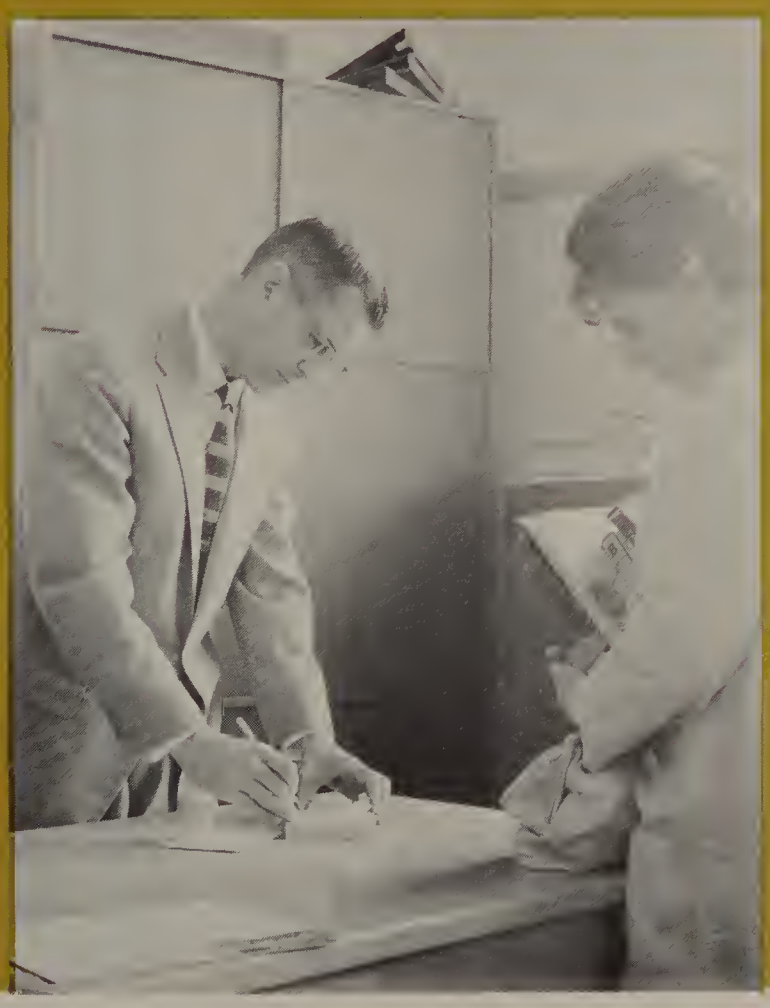
Administration

The complicated yet vitally important task of educating Beaverton's young people from the age of six to the age of 18 lies squarely on the shoulders of one of the finest administrations in the state and possibly the nation, the administration of School District 48. Under the leadership of its new superintendent, Dr. Thomas E. Woods, the administration continued to move forward in '62-'63 while promoting the highest possible standards of primary and secondary education. Beaverton High School alone made advances in nearly all academic areas while having to cope with a ticklish enrollment increase of over 200. Besides providing a fine educational background, the administration is also responsible for the comfort and well-being of its students while in class. To meet this demand the corps of deans, counselors, office personnel, librarians, nurses, cafeteria staffers and custodians work diligently with the welfare of the student their number one goal. A fine educational program, a fine atmosphere, a fine reputation. That's the administration of District 48, that's the administration of Beaverton High School.



School Welcomes

Superintendent-Clerk

District 48 introduced its new chief administrator, Dr. Thomas E. Woods, to his duties this year. As superintendent-clerk he serves as the executive officer of the district school board and administers the schools in accordance with the policies of the board, the State Board of Education and Oregon State law. His reaction to District 48 is that it "Provides a high quality educational program to boys and girls who come to school to learn." From California, Dr. Woods has had a wide range of teaching and administrative experience to prepare him for his new position.

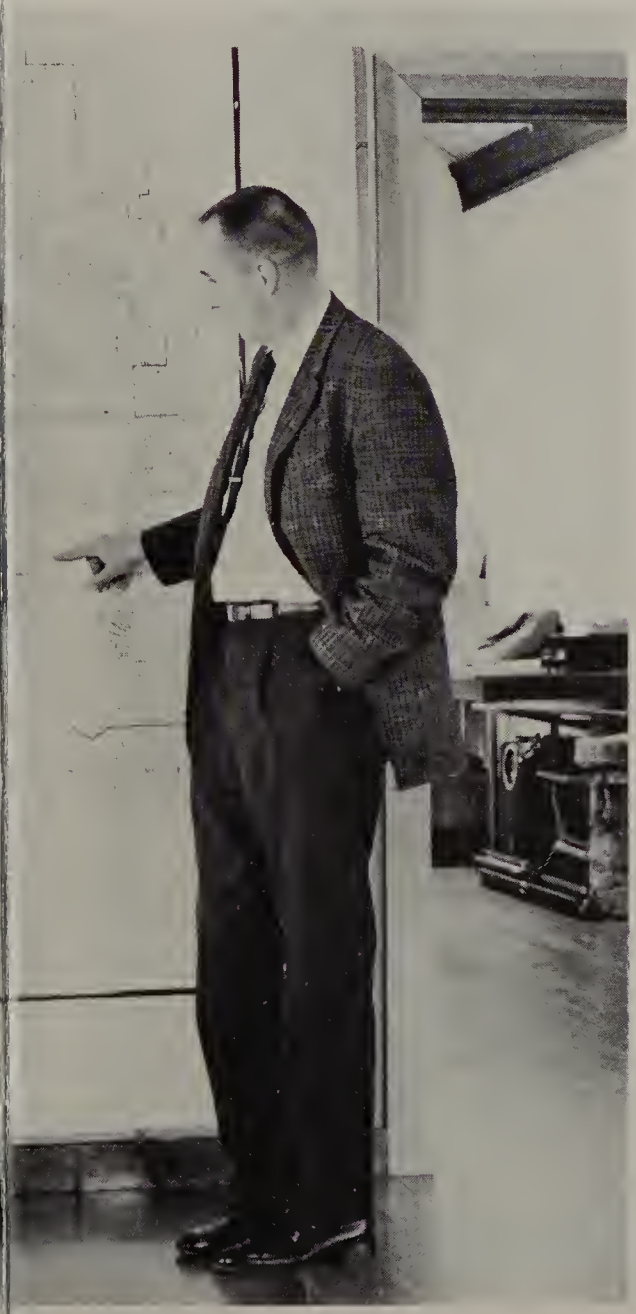
Superintendent-clerk Dr. Thomas E. Woods and Principal George E. Erickson check over

New Superintendent

GEORGE E. ERICKSON
Principal

Completing his tenth year as Principal at Beaverton Mr. George Erickson directs the entire educational program for the high school. He must coordinate the work of the faculty, office staff and other personnel. He holds prime responsibility for the reputation of Beaverton's faculty since he interviews and recommends all teachers employed here. Mr. Erickson also represents Beaverton high school in the community and maintains the cooperation of all its associates. In addition, he has served seven years as a member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools which serves as a state educational evaluation committee.

the area that encompasses the Beaverton High School district.



The central administration staff—Superintendent Woods, Deputy Superintendent Hassel and Assistant Superintendent Harris—is responsible for the administration of policies formulated by the District 48 School Board.

The School Board is responsible for determining the policies for District 48. The members carry out this function by reviewing and assigning personnel, serving the tax-payers in school affairs, and directing policies which are carried out by the superintendent. The high quality of education at Beaverton is maintained by the continual efforts of the board.

Executive Groups Unite to Direct School Affairs

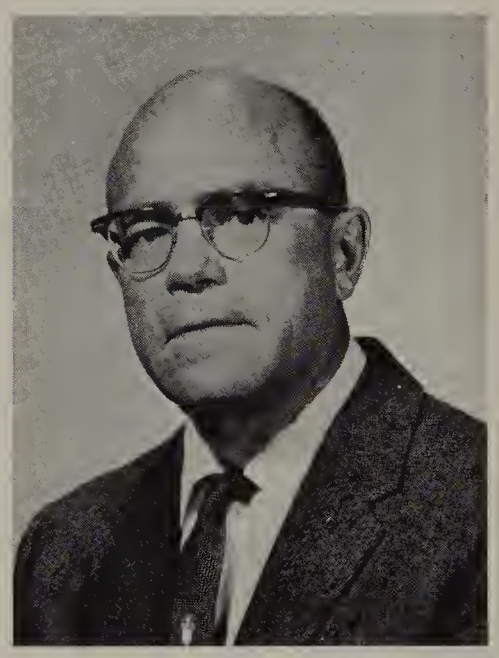
Trying to involve parents in the behind-the-scenes work of Beaverton high and the community is the main function of the Parent Teachers' Association. To promote this program a monthly newsletter is published and sent to all parents of Beaverton's students informing them of coming meetings and other activities of the P.T.A. In addition, the P.T.A. contributes generously to the foreign exchange program and provides a scholarship for a deserving senior.

Mrs. Jack Day, P.T.A. president, works at home on upcoming projects executed throughout the year by the organization.

As Assistant Principal, Mr. Arus Bird helps Beaverton maintain its close student-faculty relationships. He counsels students, supervises report card methods, takes charge of disciplinary problems, arranges for substitute teachers and oversees ticket selling for athletic contests along with his other duties.

Capable Leaders Guide Students



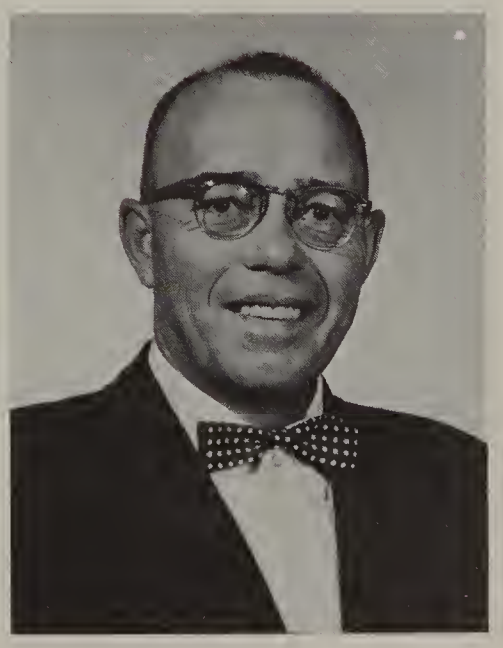
Working as Director of Athletics, Mr. Gene Freese co-ordinates the athletic activities of Beaverton and Sunset high schools along with district elementary schools. At Beaverton he heads the physical education department as well as teaching the subject to sophomores.

Miss Geraldine Sanford, Adult Education Principal, determines the courses to be offered, registers students, organizes classes, and attends state meetings on the adult program. She also acts as a coordinator between the administration and the community with the improvement of the school's public relations her major goal. In addition she teaches a number of senior English classes.

As Activity Director, Mr. Arley Boyce supervises and co-ordinates Beaverton's activity program and is a serious advocate of student participation. During the summer he makes up the activity calendar for the following year as well as being very active as summer school principal. In addition to these duties, Mr. Boyce teaches classes in retailing and selling and in functional business.

Head counselor, Mr. Robert Perry, looks on as Miss Bernice Conoly, Dean of Girls, dictates a letter to Mrs. Lu Wayne, Counseling Center secretary.

Mr. Robert Perry, as director of all counseling activities advises Boys' League and American Field Service and provides material for students concerning vocations, colleges and scholarships. He is also in charge of college visitations and the administration of PSAT tests. Miss Bernice Conoly counsels girls on both academic and personal problems. She also advises the Girls' League and is a member of the A.F.S. committee which schedules foreign student speakers.



Mr. John Needham, Audio-Visual Director, organizes the usage of audio-visual material in the classroom as well as instructing teachers on its proper usage. He is responsible for the ordering of all films, phonograph records and tape recordings which are used primarily to supplement reading materials. Furthermore, Mr. Needham advises Beaverton's school newspaper the HUMMER and in addition teaches two first-year journalism classes.

Vital School Functions Maintained

Mrs. Margaret Madsen, Mrs. Mildred Hall, Mrs. Kay Mumford and Mrs. Agnes Forbes co-ordinate their efforts to keep Beaverton High's office running smoothly and effectively. Mrs. Madsen, student body finance clerk, handles all money coming into the office and directs the transmitting of I.B.M. report card data. Attendance secretary, Mrs. Hall, records daily attendance and sends these records to the State Department of Education. Mrs. Mumford and Mrs. Forbes act as general secretaries and assist students and teachers.

Beaverton's office staff is responsible for handling all office business from mimeographing tests and worksheets for teachers to answering student questions. The library provides a vast source of educational material from which students can supplement their studies. Supplies, needed throughout the year, are made available in the student body owned bookstore. The nurses are always ready to help indisposed students who come to the health room.

Assistant librarians, Mrs. Marjorie Indahl and Mrs. Gladys Hoelschen, prepare new books for the shelves, type and file cards, do circulation work, handle mail and send out overdue notices.

The Student Body Book Store, managed by Mrs. Vine, offers solution to all student and faculty supply needs. Another asset of the store is the wide choice of paperbacks available, selected under the guidance of the English department.

Groups Render

Beaverton's clean and healthy atmosphere is maintained by the custodians. Clockwise they are Laddie Benson, Ray Wood, John Zimmer, Clarence Gartin, Bill Hatcher, Dick Muller, Albert Schlaefli. Adolf Weverka, inset, co-ordinates all duties of the janitors.

As school policeman, Mr. Walt Fain is responsible for maintaining traffic around Beaverton High School and is in charge of the safety of Beaverton's students on the school grounds.

School Services

Each day, Beaverton's laundresses, Mrs. Mertle Hart and Mrs. Nina Patterson, are faced with mountains of soiled uniforms and towels which they must launder for use in the physical education classes.

Mrs. Mae Benson and Mrs. Alda Schurman offer delectable snacks to students during all four lunch periods when the Snack Bar is open.

Cafeteria staffers Mrs. Claire Barzee, Mrs. Martha Ericson, Mrs. Betty Schneider, Mrs. Helen Rainey, Mrs. Elsie Weigle, Mrs. Elsa Vrlicak, Mrs. Barbara Banks, Mrs. Laura May, and Mrs. Emma Baker prepare score of lunches for hungry students each day.

Faculty

Sometime loved, sometimes hated, the faculty members carry on. Being solely responsible for what a student get or fails to get out of his class, the teacher is a person faced with a big responsibility, a responsibility that a great many people fail to recognize. The teacher's job is tough. He must lecture, discuss, make tests, worksheets and other assignments, and correct all these, as well as maintaining order and respect in the classroom. At Beaverton a good many faculty members serve as advisors of clubs, as department heads, as counselors or as coaches of Beaverton's many athletic teams. In addition, many of the school's instructors attend classes in the summer or at night to qualify for pay raises and to keep up with advances in their respective subject. A great deal of credit must be given Beaverton's 52-man, 32-woman faculty for the high percentage of Beaverton graduates who go on to college and find success there. A fine faculty combined with a fine program produces a fine education and this Beaverton has.

Language Arts Improve Writing,

"Read, discuss and then write" is the technique used in English classes these days. More reading than ever before was possible this year because of the great number of paperbacks available to students. Compositions, the true test of student writing skill, were often viewed by an entire class on the opaque projector, enabling the teacher to explain corrections on the theme as the students watched. Every student has his own personal composition folder which follows him throughout his years at BHS. In addition to classwork, students wrote creatively for the VINTAGE, Beaverton's literary magazine published in the spring through the efforts of juniors.

In the field of social studies this year, new methods were used to upgrade the offerings of the department. The international relations course employed a specialized reading series which was patterned on a regional and historical approach to world problems. In an escape from traditionalism one world history class started in the middle of the text and developed material in both directions simultaneously. The aim of the Beaverton social studies department is to produce better citizens through its instruction in the workings of democracy.

The study of foreign languages helps the student to understand other peoples, their countries, music, literature and history. The department emphasizes listening and speaking as important learning activities needed to master a foreign language and the exploration of the customs and cultural aspects of the countries. In order to achieve these goals, Beaverton offers a four-year sequence in French, German, Spanish, Latin and Russian. The study has become vastly more interesting and important to BHS students because of the increased use of audio-visual materials and the expanding interest in world affairs.

Science Vital to Advancing World

Beaverton's science department continued, this year, to keep up with the fast pace of the age through its modern equipment and teaching facilities. The introduction of a college-level biology course was the department's big step forward. The course, open to juniors and seniors, provided the student with television lectures three times a week as a supplement to classroom work. If fees were paid, the student received 12 hours of college credit for the year's work.

Math Classes Stress Logical Thinking

In the mathematics department, modern topics and approaches were used extensively this year. Enrollment in all music groups was at a new high this year as two classes were added to the curriculum: Girls' Chorus and Varsity Band. Beaverton, in addition, was the only high school in Oregon to receive a stereo record player and a collection of 70 long playing records donated by R.C.A. Victor to those schools where it was felt interest was especially high. All music classes continued, this year, to emphasize listening as well as performing, a skill considered valuable and important by the department.

The applied arts department at Beaverton deals with the development of the manual dexterity of the student. This year, with an increased enrollment, the department added two more teachers and also instituted many valuable improvements. Technical improvements such as electronic gluing and heat treating were added to the shop classes. More equipment was used to supplement the teaching of surveying in the drafting and carpentry courses. With additional materials photography was also expanded so that it took the form of a graphic arts course.

Business Classes Sharpen Occupational Skills

Beaverton's business education department offers courses for the general education of all students; among them personal typing, record keeping and general business. Those students interested in the business field vocationally, can plan courses that will qualify them for employment after graduation in general clerical and stenographic positions.

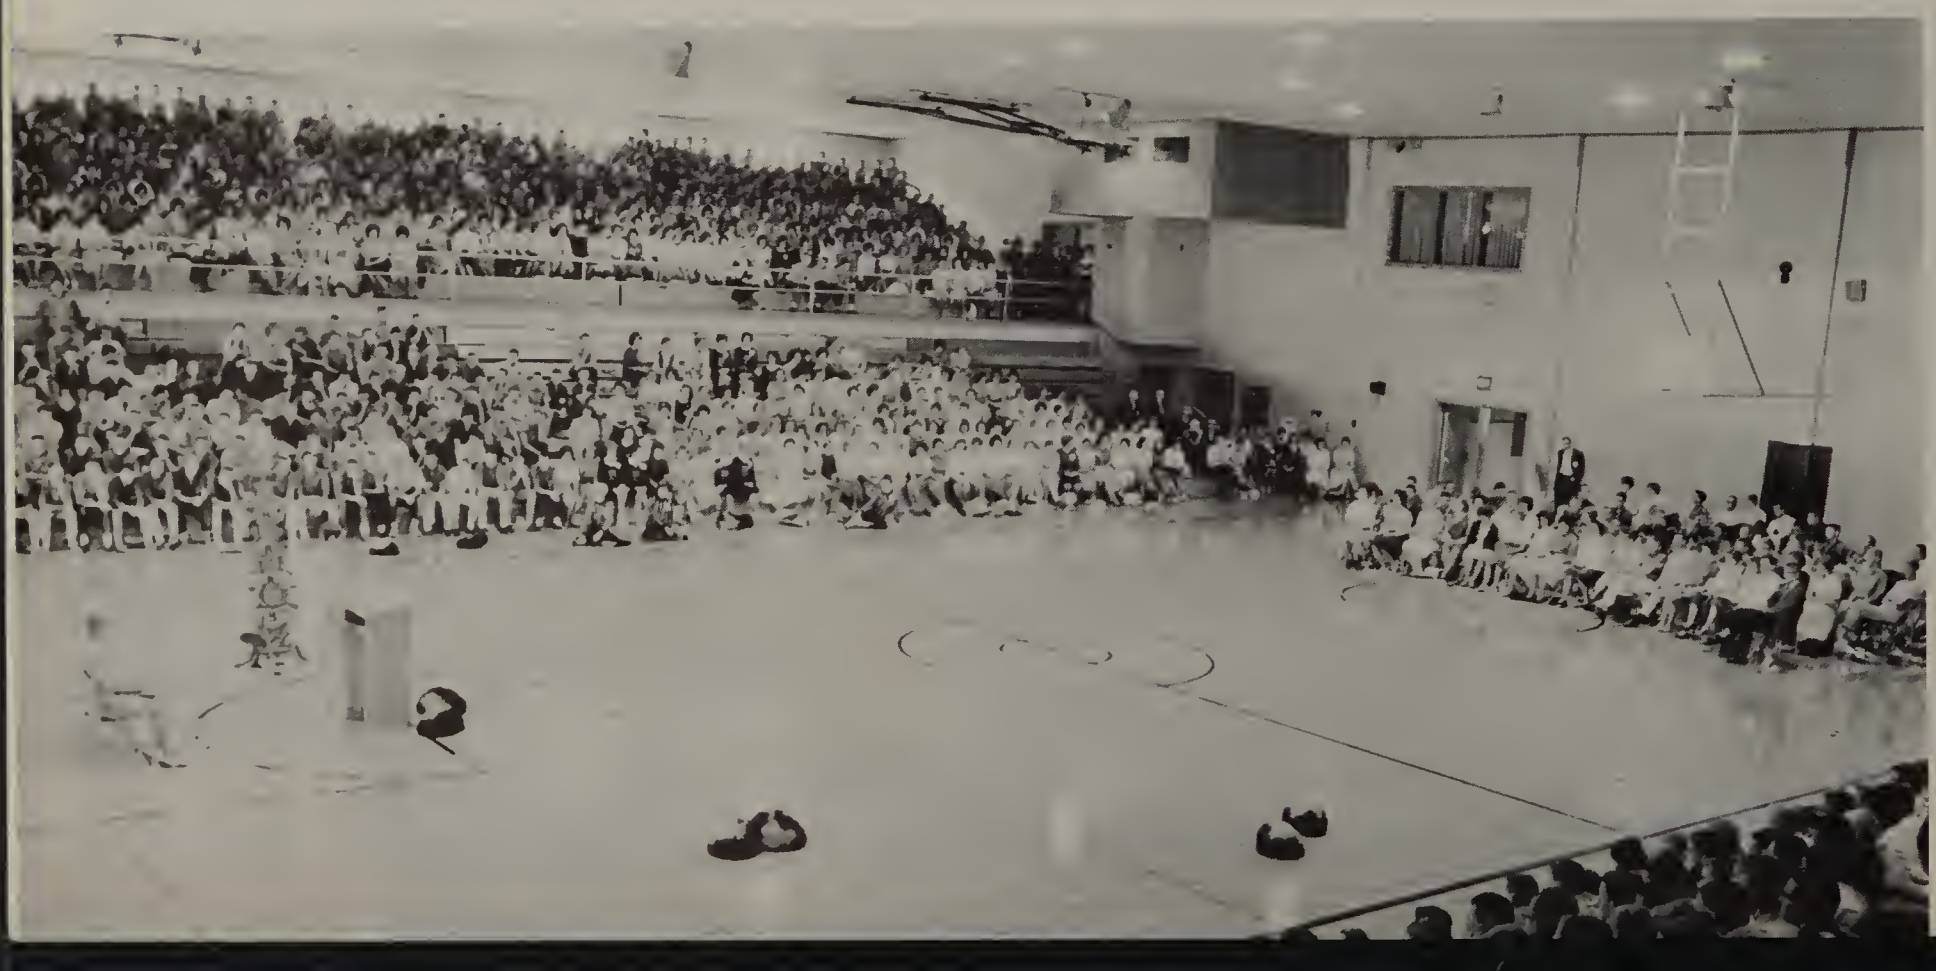
Features

From Hello Week to graduation Beaverton High School is filled with study, with athletics, with organizations and with the many traditions, dances and assemblies that make for a well-rounded school year. With such functions Beaverton ceases to be a mere building where school is taught and becomes a gathering place where friends congregate to have a good time. Traditions like Hello Week, Homecoming and Spring Reign provide students with a sense of excitement and create those cherished memories of high school life that are remembered in later years with fondness and nostalgia. Dances—aftergame, semi-formal and formal—keep the student in tune with the latest dance steps and music Pep rallies, and assemblies more serious in nature, build school spirit and interest and provide the student with a respite from the everyday hum-drum of classwork. Special activities such as clothing drives, science fairs, powder-puff games and plays give each year individuality in offering still other advantages to the student. The fun of going to high school, the fun of going to Beaverton—that's features.

Twist Return Highlights

Smiles and greetings abounded during the first week of school as freshmen enthusiastically began their first year at BHS. Hello tags helped to foster new friendships and created spirit throughout the school.

The 1962-63 student body met for the first time during the first assembly of the year. President Dean Nielsen greeted the freshmen, transfers and new teachers to the school as the sophomores topped the spirit totem pole.



Hello Week

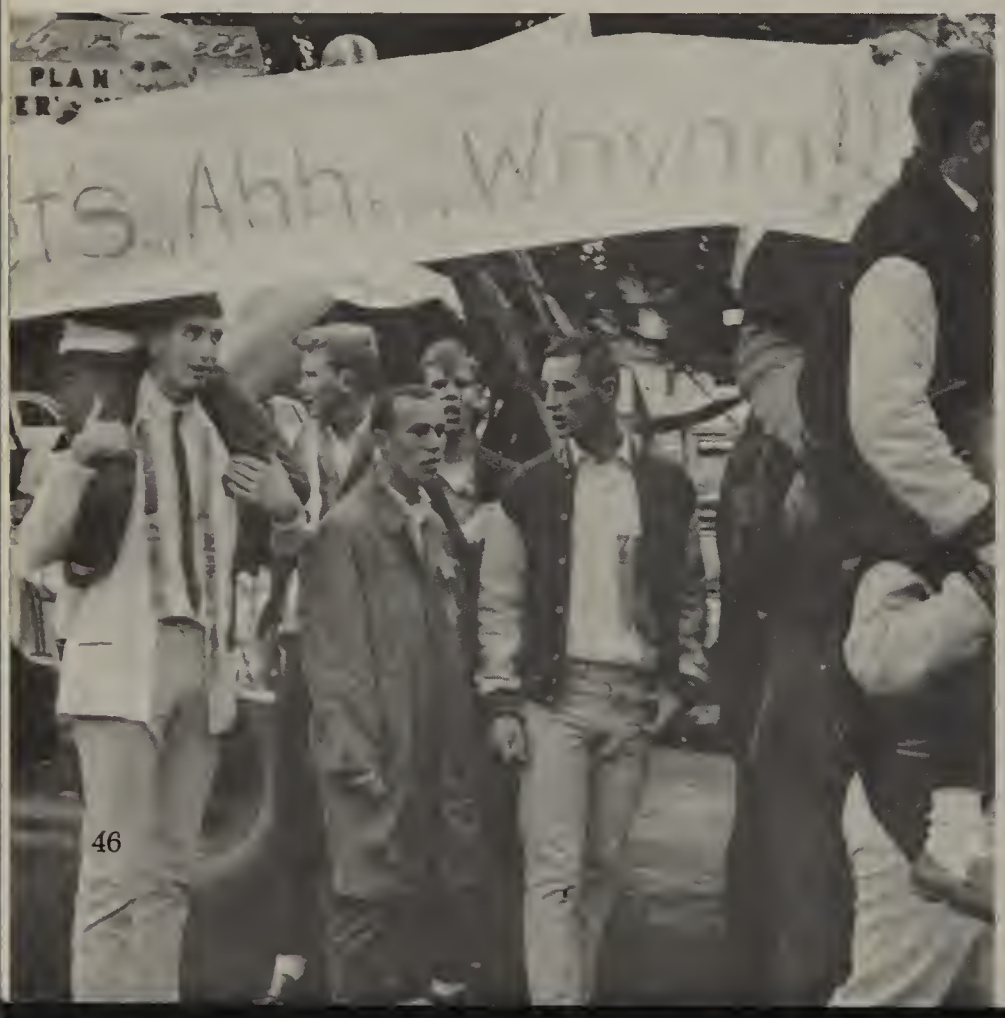
Excitment prevailed as the traditional "Hello Week" welcomed 1,738 students back to the halls of Beaverton. Gay orange and black Hello cards stimulated the week of renewing old friendships and provided a relaxed atmosphere for the kindling of new ones. On Friday the week was climaxed by a series of activities. One of these was the first assembly of the year, in which the school's foreign exchange students, Kyoko Matsubara of Japan and Patrice Vivet of France were introduced and welcomed. Beaverton's 19 new teachers were also welcomed at this time. In the evening BHS students were treated to a special intrasquad football game followed by the Hello Dance, which initiated the return of the popular dance craze, the Twist.

The revival of the Twist highlighted the Hello dance after the Black and White game. Twisters demonstrated their delight at the decision of the administration to allow the Twist's return to afergame dances.

One of the major Hello Week activities was the Black and White football game, the intrasquad scrimmage held Friday evening. The student body divided to cheer the two teams on as the Blacks fought to a 33-7 victory.

Despite heavy damage from high winds the senior class float "Beavers Off to Victory" heads undauntedly onward.

Under the direction of President Gene Clark, senior boys show their energy during the homecoming parade. Despite their efforts the class of '63 still placed second in spirit competition.



Wind Takes Homecoming

It was Beaverton homecoming versus Typhoon Frieda on October 12 with the homecoming festivities coming out the worse for wear. Under the theme of "Faraway Places" the Friday parade and assembly were held as scheduled, but destructive winds took priority over the spirit rally, football game and Pigskin Prom in the evening. Contrary to other years, tremendous spirit was demonstrated throughout the week as the classes vied for the coveted spirit award. The Juniors finally edged the Seniors by a very close and somewhat disputed margin. The class of '63 retaliated, however, by copping the float sweepstakes trophy. Despite the absence of electricity the football game with Milwaukie was held Saturday afternoon with the Beavers coming out on top 20-19. Halftime activities featured the presentation of the court, and the coronation of Junior Fran Krieske as Queen of the wind-blown 1962 homecoming.

After upsetting the seniors' two year winning streak, junior class president Dede Gallus tearfully accepts the spirit trophy won by her elated class.

Freshman cheerleaders add to the spirit of homecoming by selling traditional mums to last minute buyers.

"Think of it Miep, only three years ago."

"I lift up mine eyes unto the Lord."

"Why, it's been two years since I've even seen a cake."

Modern Art Adorns "The Gallery"

The West Gym was transformed into an ultra-modern art gallery for the annual Girls' and Boys' league semi-formal dance. Decorations featured numerous modern art pieces including both paintings and sculptures. Music provided by the Beaverton High School dance band, the Rhythm Heirs, accompanied the couples as they waltzed through "The Gallery" of weird and abstract student creations.

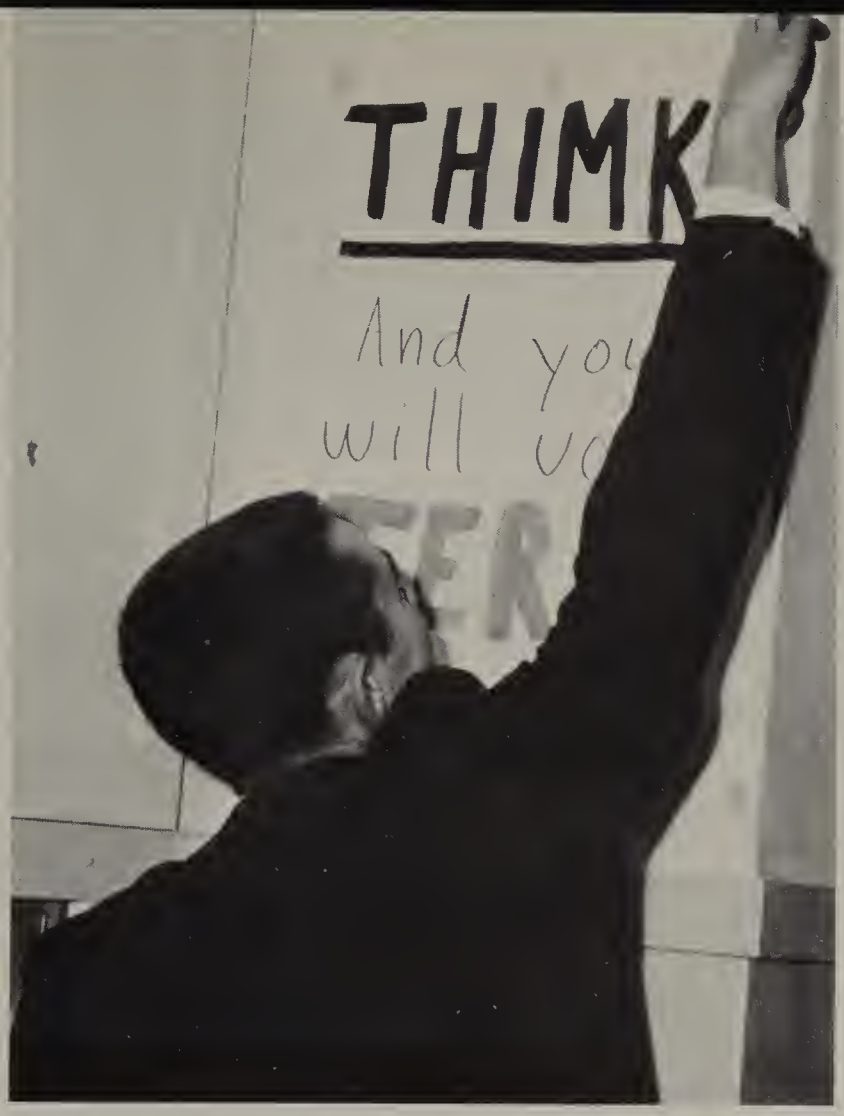
Upperclassmen Rule Supreme in Clothing Drive Competition

Sophomore Don Fields watches as Senior Kent Caveny weighs bag of clothes for competition between the upper and lower classes.

With a last day surge, Beaverton's upperclassmen came from behind to edge the underclassmen in January's intraschool clothing drive competition. The juniors and seniors collected 2433 pounds to 2295 for the freshmen and sophomores. Because of questionable tactics used in the drive two years ago when competition was between Beaverton and Sunset, this year's interclass affair was installed. Not as many clothes were collected but the drive still proved successful, the 4728 total pounds being sent to the Save the Children Federation. Chairman of the drive was Senior Mike Robinson.

Sophomores Rick Farish and Raivo Kubbo add a bag of clothes to the large pile to be sent to the Save the Children Federation.



Senior Terry Scheller demonstrates one of the forms of competition prevalent during campaign week by taping up a poster for his secretarial race.

A successful campaign speech marked the beginning of a half-year of training for junior Mickie Downie, who was elected Student Body Treasurer. She served under the incumbant, Markita Price, during spring term and will take over full duties in the fall.

Speeches, Posters, Skits: Elections!

Beaverton students once again displayed school spirit and desire for leadership by their active participation in the campaigns for second semester Student Body offices. Fifteen candidates vied for the six available positions. One unique aspect of the campaign was the fact that senior Rod Bernard ran for Student Body Vice President from Hannover, Germany where he was representing B.H.S. as a foreign exchange student. Rod returned from Europe just in time to assume his new office. Joining him on the spring executive cabinet were Dean Whitman, President; Pat Ricks, Secretary; Mickie Downie, Treasurer; Rich Stenberg, Manager; and Shannon Lees, Reporter.

Portraying "Supermanager" in a campaign assembly skit, Ray Stenberg substitutes for his twin brother Rich, who ran and was elected Student Body Manager.

Crystal Trees

Candy peppermint poles surrounded the pink and white wonderland as couples dance to music provided by the "Shadows" at the winter formal presented by the senior class.

Provide Christmas Atmosphere at "Peppermint Whirl"

Pink and white stripes dominated the decor of the annual winter formal, "Peppermint Whirl," presented by the senior class. The gymnasium was transformed into a peppermint wonderland in which students forgot books and classes and gaily greeted the Christmas holidays. Industrious seniors sprayed over fifty trees white, and hung reams of colored paper for the gala event. Their creation featured small groups of white Christmas trees surrounded by "snow" and emphasized by pink lights. In the center of the floor was a giant white tree decorated with pink balls. "The Shadows," the musicians for the dance added to the holiday spirit by playing Christmas songs.

Waltzing among the fir trees is delayed while couples Kathy Brown and Paul Young, and Jani Penn and Cliff Wilson snatch pink ornaments as souvenirs of the "Peppermint Whirl."

A moment of relaxation gives dates Butch Eaton and Suji Kennedy a chance to discuss an evening of enchantment with John Michaelis and Jeannette Harland.

B.H.S. Enters Show Biz With "That's Entertainment"

"That's Entertainment", the traditional variety show, played to a full house for both of the performances on February 22 and 23. The show, directed by speech teacher Wes Tolliver, included 21 different acts and was hailed by most who saw it as Beaverton's best ever. Master of Ceremonies Jim Buck and his senior assistants, Joey Woodcock and Jenny McLaughlan, introduced such numbers as Dancing Girls from New York, Little Red Riding Hood in Russian presented by the Russian Club, the Merry Widow Waltz ballet by Susan Sanford, various numbers by the Rhythm B's, "The Telephone Hour" from the broadway show "Bye Bye Birdie" done by the Beavertones, "John Henry" done by the sophomore "Troubadors," various play cuts and monologues plus numerous other acts.

Dancing and singing groups combined their efforts for the number "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody." As the Beavertones sang, some of the Rhythm B's modeled evening clothes, and others, led by Sophomore Sue Fealy, did a ballet version of the song.

Seniors Joey Woodcock and Jenny McLaughlin, who assisted Master of Ceremonies Jim Buck, also did a cut entitled "Two Girls at Sea." The hilarious number involved two nervous teenagers on their first voyage to Europe, and was taken from the novel "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay."

"I told him, 'Don't go Juley, Don't go!'" cries Sophomore Tom Platt as he plays the part of Mrs. Caesar in the monologue "No Blood on my Toga." The humorous act involved a modern rendition of the investigation of the famous death of Julius Caesar.

The Rhythm B's took up banjo playing for their popular act entitled "Mr. Banjo." Though the first half of the act was under normal lighting, the last half of it was highlighted by the use of black light. Just the girls' gloves, bows, shoes and banjos glowed on the dark stage.

For the second year in a row, Junior Micki Downie won the traditional prize for the most original and festive mask. Her escort, Prince Rich Stenberg, whistles through the engine of a train while she holds up the caboose.

King Rich I Rules Over Festive Mardi Gras

Mardi Gras, the pre-spring semi-formal, traditionally presented by the French Club, introduced a festive mood for Spring Vacation. Decor of the dance featured a large green dragon on one wall and a Parisian street scene on another. Juniors Mickie Downie and Rich Stenberg won the mask contest, making it the second consecutive year that Mickie's masks have won the award. Music was provided by the Keynotes. Culmination of the evening was the coronation of Rich Sheron as King of Hearts as he defeated princes Dean Whitman, Rich Stenberg, Bob Whitman, Fred Jubitz, Tom Platt, John Finnell and Ogie Young in a vote held at the dance.

Elated Rich Sheron receives congratulations from his date Kay Eisiminger and his court after being crowned King of the traditional Mardi Gras by French Club president Mary Miles.

Surrounded by hearts, balloons, and colorful crepe paper, couples converse and rest during the evening intermission. Enjoying themselves on the dance floor are Patrice Vivet, foreign exchange student from France with Date Gretchen Rittenour.

Hoop Skills, Hilarity Featured in Student-Faculty Game

Two combinations of wit, skill and luck were pitted against each other in the annual Student-Faculty basketball game held in late January. With their "Red", "Go" and "Chinese Bandit" units the Student Mad-Hatters battled the Faculty All-Stars in a game that had everything from a "Nature Boy" Tom Danley to a "Dunker" Kang. The game was a March of Dimes benefit with senior Kin Lynch as master of ceremonies. Half-time entertainment was provided by senior girls who played their own brand of the hoop sport.

No holds barred seemed to be the theme of the Student-Faculty game as shown here by Mike Nelson and Messrs. Taylor and Kirchner. Posed and ready to attack are Mr. Max White and senior Dick Nelson.

The two day fair was held in the West Gym. Though this picture shows few observers, the isles were usually crowded with interested high school students and many grade school students.

Science Fair Sparks Student Initiative

Scientifically-minded Beavers were given a chance to display their knowledge and initiative in the annual B.H.S. Science Fair, co-sponsored by the science department and the Up 'n Atom science club. The 280 exhibits were categorized into biological, physical and mathematical divisions. The public was invited to view the projects during the two day period and many grade schools brought their seventh and eighth grades to get an idea of the scientific interests and studies of B.H.S. students.

Senior Shirley Black examines a plant which was part of a project showing the effects of different types of soil on plant growth. Most of the projects in the fair were biological rather than physical.

Individual Honors

Senior Gretchen Young participates in the school clean-up campaign "Project Rubble Trouble," showing one of the qualities that made her the D.A.R. Good Citizen of the Year. Gretchen also won a first place scholarship in the State Elk's leadership contest, as well as representing Beaverton as Girls' State Governor last summer.

Junior Jani Penn, Freshman Margo Miller and Senior Richard Nagai inspect one of the posters on the bulletin board of the art room. All three won blue ribbons in the 36th annual Scholastic Art Awards competition, sponsored by the J. K. Gill Company. These Beaverton students were three out of 100 who received blue ribbon awards out of a total of 4,000 entries.

Highlight Academic Year

Senior Joan Sisler, winner of the Betty Crocker Future Homemaker Award sets her mind to sewing in the home economics room. Joan went on to participate in state competition, which was won the last two years by Beaverton graduates Karney Platt and Jennifer Lehman.

National Merit Semi-Finalists Rod Bernard, Mary Miles, Jack Bodner, Markita Price and Steve McLaughlin discuss their award between classes. These five seniors received high scores on the National Merit tests which they took in the spring of their junior year. From the national group of semi-finalists, finalists were chosen, making them eligible for Merit scholarships.

All Ye Peoples

This year BHS welcomed Patrice Vivet from France as one of its foreign exchange students. Pat, who lives in Paris, spent the year with the Schellers and attended high school with his American brother and sister, Terry and Karen. Pat quickly became an integral part of the Beaverton student body, especially as an active member of L'Alliance and Executive Cabinet.

... of the Earth..."

Petite Kyotko Matsubara from Yokohama, Japan, brought the spirit of Oriental culture to Beaverton. Junior Nancy Day found her a wonderful sister, and the whole school delighted in her presence. She displayed her dancing abilities as an honorary member of Rhythm B's, and also served Beaverton on Executive Cabinet.

BHS senior Rod Bernard spent the first semester of the school year at Kaiser Wilhelms Gymnasium in Hannover, Germany. However, attending school across the ocean didn't stop Rod from being an active Beaver. With numerous letters he contributed constantly to the Executive Cabinet's suggestion box, and with the help of a few friends got himself elected student body vice president for spring term.

Since her freshman year active Mary Miles has devoted skill, energy, and time in BHS organizations. Showing her leadership character, she served as freshman class vice-president and as president of French Club. As a sophomore she became royalty by being selected as a Pigskin Prom Princess. Demonstrating her writing talent, Mary was chosen VINTAGE Editor and Feature Co-Editor to the BEAVER Staff. She was also an active tennis player and skier.

Pat Ricks
November

Friendly Pat Ricks has brightened the halls of BHS with her radiant smiles. Her interest in languages was shown through her participation in both Russian and French Club. Yet she still had time and spirit to be a member of the J.V. Rally squad. Patty also took an active part in student government by serving as freshman and junior class secretary. Her senior year found her active as second semester student body secretary.

Gretchen Young displayed her various abilities in many different phases of school life. She served Beaverton as a member of rally squad for four years, and was an active member of Girls' League Cabinet. She was also a representative to general council and executive cabinet. Displaying her athletic skill, Gretchen was on the swimming team for four years, and was a member of Ski-B's. She managed to maintain an excellent scholastic average, and was a member of National Honor Society

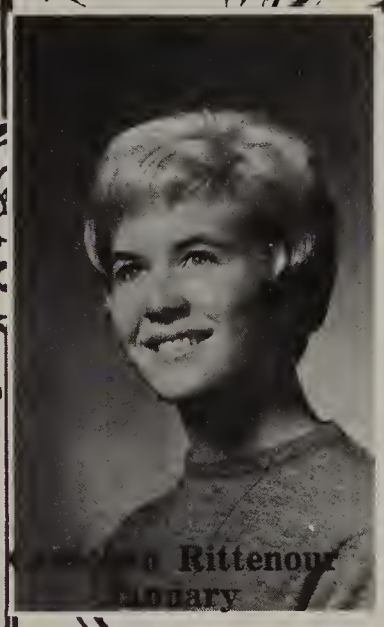
Serving on rally squad her freshman, sophomore and senior years, Mary Kiezer added pep to BHS. Singing was also a vital part in her busy schedule. She was a member of A Capella choir and Beavertones. As a junior Mary was selected as Homecoming Queen for the Pigskin Prom. Her wide variety of activities was also shown through her participation in General Council, Girls' League Cabinet and National Honor Society.

Charm, Poise, Ability-- Girls-of-the-Month

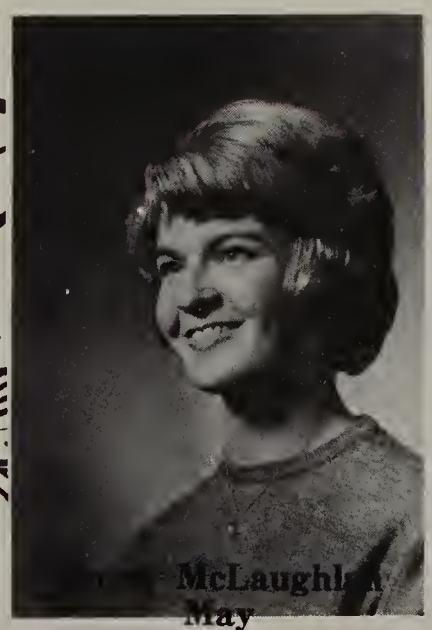
Poised and charming, Charlene Weber has shown her ability by being active in Rhythm B's the last two years. She also was a member of A Capella Choir and an active participant at speech tournaments. She demonstrated her leadership by directing the mother-daughter tea and serving as a class officer both her freshman and sophomore years. In the classroom she has also been outstanding, consistently a blue card student and a member of National Honor Society since her sophomore year.

Pretty Sue Cox helped to increase school spirit by serving as a freshman and varsity rally squad member and as a Rhythm B. She was also an active participant in Girls' league cabinet as well as a Latin Club member. Further interest in school activities was displayed by her participation in general council and executive cabinet. Sue was also chairman of the college student-return day Christmas, designed to inform seniors of college life.

Often found working behind the scenes was energetic Gretchen Rittenour. She demonstrated her athletic ability by lettering in swimming four years, and participating in Ski B's. She has been a member of rally squad since her freshman year. Besides being an active member of French Club and Girls League Cabinet, Gretchen's scholastic aptitudes made her a member of National Honor Society her sophomore year.



Industrious and dedicated Markita Price has performed many services during her four years at BHS. Her membership in General Council, Up'n Atom, National Honor Society and orchestra illustrate her diversified interests. She was elected her senior year to the office of Student Body Treasurer, and last year she was selected as a National Merit Scholarship semi-finalist.



Active Jenny McLaughlan displayed her dramatic skills throughout her years at BHS by participation in speech tournaments and plays. She was given a summer scholarship to Northwestern University her junior year. As a senior Jenny was honored by being selected president of National Thespians and a Princess for the Pigskin Prom. Because of her dancing ability she served as Rhythm B's line captain.

Organizations

When 3:30 P.M. arrives on an average school day Beaverton's academic side gives way to her extra-curricular side as students busy themselves with numerous projects as members of numerous organizations. All-in-all Beaverton has 35 clubs and associations in which almost any student interest can be tested. Student government ambitions can be realized by working as a class or student body officer. For those who wish to serve in an area other than government, Beaverton has organizations such as the Fire Squad, the Pep Club, the Rally Squad and the school publications where service qualities can be broadened and put to the best use.

Honorary organizations such as the National Honor Society, Winged B, Quill and Scroll and National Thespians provide students with exceptional abilities the chance to discuss and grow in these abilities with students of the same interests.

Interest groups like Up 'n Atom, L'Alliance, Ski B's and Rifle Club give students the opportunity to further pursue their hobby or course. A chance for learning, a chance for fun, a chance for companionship—these are the benefits of Beaverton's organizations.

Through Effective Leadership

Student Body President Dean Nielsen expresses what he will remember most about his term of office at Beaverton: "Years from now, when I glance back upon my high school days at Beaverton, I am certain the experience which will be most outstanding in my mind will be that of serving a semester as Student Body President. Probably one of the most valuable aspects of the entire semester was the opportunity I had, through working on projects and activities, to meet, work with, and understand so many wonderful, dedicated students. The associations which I developed during this period I will never forget. Furthermore, having served as its president, I have ultimately realized what a truly great high school Beaverton is. My experiences have led me to honor its faculty, respect its students and revere its institutions.

. . . And though years from now the details of my term may appear hazy, the image of Beaverton will never fade from my memory."

Second Semester President Dean Whitman expresses what he will remember most about his term of office at Beaverton: "Student participatio highlighted the second semester's activities w included such projects as Spring Reign, AFS Region III and the eLadership Worksh entire student body should be congratulate extremely productive and successful ye academically and scholastically, in which reputation of B.H.S. was upheld. As Stud President, I have sincerely enjoyed wor the many devoted students and faculty who gave their time and effort in solvin body problems, planning activties, or otherwise being a help to the school in general. It was quite an experience being a leader as well as a member of such an enthusiastic student body. Throughout my four years I have grown in respect for my fellow students, the faculty and the administration. Their help has contributed to the outstanding recognition for which B.H.S. has always been admired.

. . . Years from now as I look back on my high school days, fond memories of Beaverton will always stand out in my mind.

Leadership Byword of Executive Cabinet

Executive Cabinet worked continuously throughout the year to promote school spirit, to better inform the student body, and to improve school-community relationships. Various cabinet members attended the Region III conferences where representatives from schools in the Portland area met to discuss school problems and to learn methods of bettering student government. Exchange student council days were held with Astoria High, during which students from both schools were able to get an inside view of the other's government. In addition the cabinet planned Hello Week, Homecoming, school assemblies and Spring Reign; sponsored the variety show to supplement the scholarship fund; and solved major problems arising within the student body. The cabinet also acted as host for the Region III spring meeting.

Second Semester Executive Cabinet members include Row 1: Gretchen Rittenour, Rally Representative; Shannon Lees, Reporter; Rod Bernard, Vice Presidnt; Markita Price, Treasurer; Dean Whitman, President; Pat Ricks, Secretary; Dean Nielsen, First Semester President; Sue Cox, Rally Representative; Sharon DeYoung, BEAVER Associate Editor. Interclub Council, composed of representatives from all Beaverton clubs, is responsible for governing and co-ordinating club activities. By assisting individual clubs with problems, the council strengthens the club in addition to allowing others to benefit from the experience. Each new club must have its constitution reviewed and approved by the council members before acquiring its charter. Besides approving new clubs, the Interclub Council evaluates all member clubs on fulfillment of its purposes, constant representation at Council meetings, and various other standards. Failure in any one specified area results in suspension of charter until the club has taken measures to remedy the problem.

Interclub Council officers, President Steve Smith and Secretary Sharon Wilson, pose in front of the new student body office, where they spent many hours working for the council.

General Council, which normally meets in the cafeteria, takes advantage of a bright fall morning to hold their meeting outside in the grandstand.

General Council, under the leadership of student body vice-presidents Tom Ayres and Rod Bernard, enacted several new programs aimed at improving student body spirit and behavior. Classroom representatives met every other Wednesday morning at 9:00 to discuss ideas presented by various students, to vote on amendments handed down from Executive Cabinet, and to solve school problems. Perhaps the most noticeable innovation handled by General Council was the painting of the beaver on the wall of the East Gym. This project was financed by money left expressly for the purpose by the class of 1961. In addition to its other activities, General Council sponsored the Clothing drive with inter-class competition and decorated the halls and a tree at Christmas time.

General Council initiated a first at Beaverton High this year – Student-Teacher Day. Under this plan, students took over teaching positions or administrative offices for one or two periods on a designated day. Highly informative for both the teachers and students, this activity might be repeated in future years.

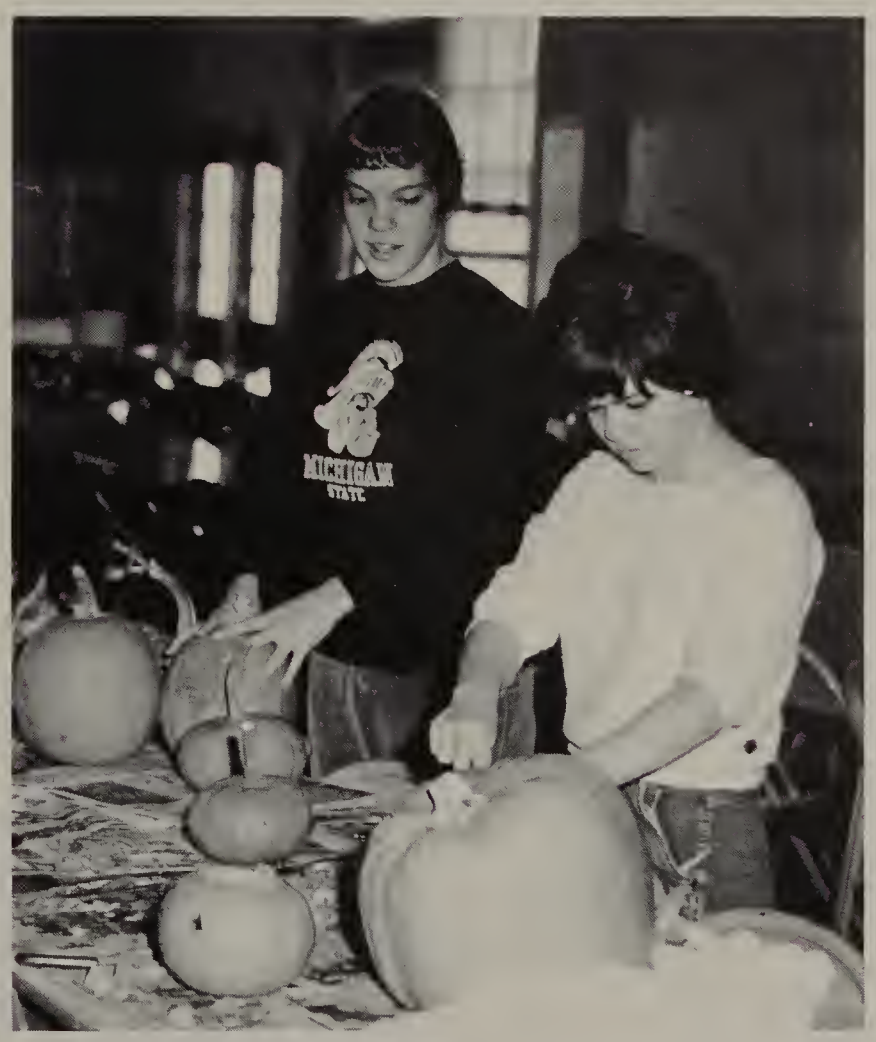
Numerous School Projects

Girls' League, an organization to which every girl in the student body belongs, worked again to promote closer relationships between members of the four classes. Directed by a cabinet composed of the officers, committee chairmen and class representatives, the club promoted many social events such as the Big and Little Sister party, the Mother-Daughter Tea for freshmen girls and the jointly sponsored Boys' and Girls' League semi-formal "The Gallery". Since service is one of the club's main themes, members also participated in carving Halloween pumpkins for an old folks home, caroling at Christmas and selling stationery for their scholarship fund. Two new programs were started in Girls' League this year. One was the PERFUME PRESS, a paper designed to better inform the school's girls of the League's activities. The other was the highly successful and fun Hush Day.



Two Girls' League members spend Saturday morning helping to carve pumpkins for the Halloween project. The finished pumpkins were sent to a retirement home, where they helped add to the holiday spirit.

Boys' League Promotes Fellowship

Boy's League, in an effort to make each boy an active member of school activities, stimulated interest in all BHS affairs. A semi-formal dance, "The Gallery," co-sponsored with Girl's League was the main project of the year. Boy's League also co-ordinated a program featuring graduates from Beaverton. During this time alumni related their college experiences and later answered questions from interested students. In addition, speakers addressed the boys during assemblies on a variety of subjects, Hal Laycoe, Portland hockey coach, being one of these speakers.

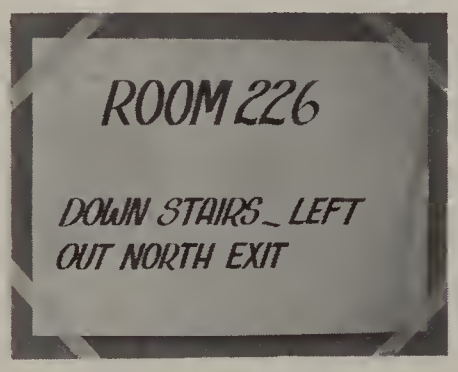
Fire Squad Stresses School Safety

Students file out of the building and head for the football field during one of the many fire drills which were handled by members of the Fire Squad.

Fire Squad once again efficiently handled the numerous practice fire drills held throughout the year to promote safety within Beaverton High. Members must, in a minimum of time, close windows, turn off lights, shut doors, and evacuate students. Also, drills are held at all times, including between classes and during assemblies, to better prepare the student body for emergencies. The club's aftergame dance "The Drag" featured a tricycle drag race.



Rally Squads Work For

VARSITY RALLY

Whenever doubt entered anyone's mind as to the volume of spirit at Beaverton, they didn't have to look far for reassurance. One glance at the peppy, gayly dressed varsity, J.V. and freshman rally squads would be enough to satisfy anyone's doubts as to student spirit. In co-ordinating the students and teams into a winning combination the rally squads once again produced cute skits, well executed dances and interesting yells this year that kept student spirit and interest at a high level. In addition, members of the varsity rally squads were introduced to many new methods of cheerleading when they attended the Rally Clinic held at O.S.U. last summer. Throughout the year they revised and added to their list of yells making each pep assembly different and more invigorating.

Decorating the goal posts for all home football games is only one of the many duties of the Pep Club. Here members display their proficiency at the task.

Pep Club works diligently throughout the year, promoting spirit, and supporting the athletic teams at games and Pep assemblies. In October Pep Club sponsored the annual Pigskin Prom contributing not only many hours of tedious work, but also four spirited girls as representatives in the Pigskin Prom Court. The club is responsible for making hall posters, decorating the goal-posts during football season and selling bus tickets for away games. To promote enthusiasm within the club itself, each month a deserving member is awarded the title of Miss Pep.

Y-Teens, a girls service organization affiliated with the Y.W.C.A., launched this year's activities with the presentation of their annual fashion show. This event, at which fall and winter outfits are modeled by Y-Teen members, is one of the school year highlights. Then, such projects as volunteer work for the World Service Organization and the making of Christmas stockings for the children's ward at Doernbecher Hospital, were added to the state. In February, members helped supplement club funds by making candy for the popular Y-Teens Candy sale, and, in the spring, a senior girl was selected as a princess to represent the club at the Y-Teens formal, held in the Portland YWCA.

For members of the BEAVER staff, the year's work started in June, when each person received a list of businesses for the purpose of selling ads for the BEAVERTALE, Beaverton's student telephone directory. When the school year began the staff began the task of planning pages, making schedules, writing copy and finally pasting up. These long hours of work were rewarded at the end of the year, when, during the dedication assembly, the annual was dedicated to a worthy faculty member. Other honorary copies were presented to BEAVER advisor Mrs. Kay MacLean, and the staff members.

Every afternoon starting at 1:30 the HUMMER staff diligently works, striving to put forth the most effective and informative newspaper possible. In preparing the bi-monthly publication, each staff member must carry out his duties of gathering and writing the news, soliciting advertisements, planning page layouts, and then pasting up the final copy. This year the HUMMER staff once again supplemented its normal editing schedule by publishing the CAMPAIGNER, Beaverton high's voting guide for student body elections.

National Honor Society, an organization whose membership is composed of exceptional students, may include no more than fifteen percent of the seniors, ten percent of the juniors, and five percent of the sophomores. Seventy-two new members, elected by a faculty board, were announced during the January assembly and were inducted in February. These students become, after one year of probation, active members and are then eligible to run for the society's offices. Included in the induction ceremony were six short speeches given by the club's officers and two members, and a discussion presented by Dr. Manning of Portland State College.

Quill and Scroll, an international journalistic honorary society, is open to all staff members of the BEAVER and HUMMER who are in the upper third of their class and show excellence in their work on either of the publications. The prospected members must be recommended by the school principal or publication advisor, and approved by the executive secretary of the national organization. This society keeps the publication workers posted on new techniques and developments made in the field of student journalism.

National Thespians of Beaverton High School are members of the Honorary Dramatics Organization. This active organization won the Float Sweepstakes in the Homecoming Parade last fall. Members also marched in the Fairytale Parade and played an active part in the production and presentation of all-school plays, "Diary of Anne Frank", and "My Three Angels". The main highlight of the year was the presentation of three one-act plays. Students worked for months preparing for the three plays, "Antic Spring", "Gift of Tenyin", and "The Cellar Door", written by Vicki Mote, a Thespian member.

Winged "B", an organization of all Beaverton lettermen, continued the high standard of service it has maintained in previous years. The club's main project was the establishment of a new bulletin board at the entrance to the East Gym. Here, in addition to up-to-date records of the accomplishments of Beaverton's athletic teams, the members placed action shots from important games and pictures of team members. The club again presented the last aftergame dance of the year, "Ooh-Pooh-Pah-Doo Part III," a continuation of a theme begun three years ago. Also, members assisted the school by punching student body cards and collecting tickets at athletic events, maintaining the scoreboard, operating the illuminated roster board in the East Gym, and keeping up the game schedule in the East Gym lobby.

Beaverton High Band presented several new formations throughout the year, such as this "B", honoring the Beavers at the first football game of the season.

Throughout the school year and during the summer, Beaverton's band represented the spirit of Beaverton High School. Conducted by Mr. Alan Anderson, new this year to Beaverton, they encouraged enthusiasm at all home games and Pep Assemblies. In addition to their regular duties, they organized and presented the highly successful "Pops Concert." During the spring, they participated in the Rose Festival Parade and later in summer played for the Shrine All-Star Game for crippled children.

Beaverton High School's dance band, the Rhythm Heirs, specialize in popular and jazz music. The members of this group are selected from the larger band on the basis of talent and interest. Their talents were displayed throughout the year at various school dances and at the variety show, "That's Entertainment."

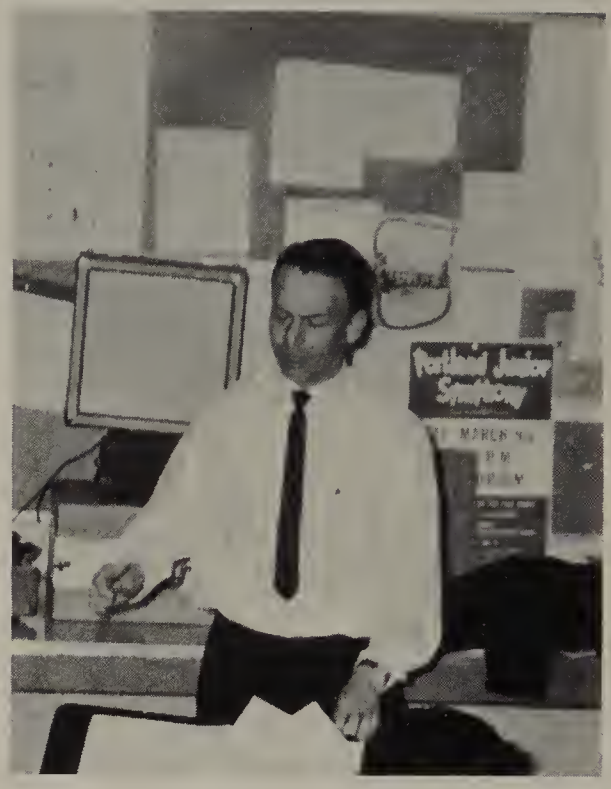
Mr. Lind exhibits the skill he has utilized in conducting and co-ordinating the orchestra. Under his leadership, the group has given consistently excellent performances.



Another addition to the long list of cultural groups is Beaverton High's orchestra. Time and time again, at functions such as the Fall, Christmas, and Spring Concerts, the orchestra presented performances that were well received. Under the baton of Mr. Lind, members worked daily, perfecting their medley of pieces in preparation for various grade school and club appearances.

Beavertones, a special choral group, the members of which are selected from a cappella, have a double job, singing not only with their own group but also with the larger choir. Beavertones perform at school functions such as assemblies and concerts and at outside events such as grade school concerts and club dinners. In addition, Beavertone members add their musical talent to P.T.A. meetings, the Variety Show, and enter various Metro League ensemble contests.

Chansonettes, another choral group stemming from a cappella, include only qualified senior girls. This ensemble performed, along with the other musical organizations, at numerous school functions and also participated in many outside activities.

Choirs Add

Talent to Numerous Functions

Beaverton's choirs, A Cappella, Girls' Chorus and Mixed Chorus, stimulate music appreciation among not only our own students, but also those of grade schools which are visited and adults who view their performances. Fall, Christmas, and spring concerts are but a few of the functions at which they present their consistently outstanding arrangements. Along with these activities, the A Cappella Choir is called upon to perform at Spring Reign ceremonies, Commencement exercises, and various other school and community projects.

Members of L'Alliance work on decorations for their "Whisper Waltz," a dance sponsored in conjunction with the Girls League "Hush Day."

L'Alliance, which strives to promote a better understanding of the French people, had another successful year as one of Beaverton's most active clubs. The organization continued, in '62-'63, to maintain its foster French child Charles Deny, whom it adopted a year ago. Highlights of the year for the group were the "Whisper Walse", a dance sponsored in conjunction with the Girls' League "Hush Day"; the traditional Mardi Gras ball, held in March; and an induction which once again greatly increased the membership. In addition French foreign exchange student Patrice Vivet gave many interesting talks about his homeland and often assisted other members in the task of learning the French language.

Christmas Party Highlights Panamero Year

Panamero, Beaverton's Spanish Club, once again had a very successful and profitable year. Their meetings included not only the usual business affairs but also speakers and movies which provided interesting and fruitful entertainment. The official opening of the club's activities was a highly successful and well attended induction. Immediately following this, the club took up a collection of Thanksgiving food for a needy family. Yet it was the Christmas party that formed the highlight of the year. This colorful event included the Posados, a re-enactment of Mary and Joseph's search for lodging in Bethlehem, as well as the traditional breaking of the Pinata.

Panamero members, aided by Advisor Miss Amarette Barnes, box food to send to a needy family during Thanksgiving. Each member contributed a small article to make the project successful.

German Club, the school organization open to all students enrolled in a German class, continued its program of studying German culture by sponsoring various speakers and movies throughout the year. Also included on Gesellchaft's agenda were the induction of new officers, held the first of October, an aftergame dance in December, the Christmas sale of German cookies and a visit to the German old folks home. Ending the year's activities was an elaborate semi-formal installation of officers, after which those attending were treated to punch and cookies.

Russian Beavers Continue to Grow

The Russian Club, organized to further the members' knowledge of the Soviet people and their customs, launched its active second year with a "Russian Goodies" sale in order to raise funds. Speakers were heard and pins were selected during the first meeting. Highlight of the year was the participation of members in the school variety show when they enacted "Little Red Riding Hood" with a Russian dialogue.

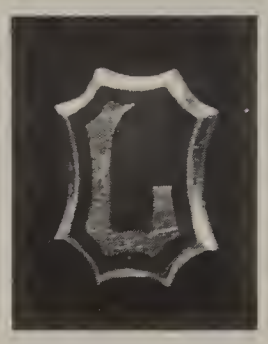
Fasces Provides Insight to Ancient Rome

Fasces, Beaverton's Latin Club, once again successfully completed numerous projects. This year the club elected to join the Junior Classical League, a nationwide organization which promotes the study of the classical languages. In addition, they participated in school activities by selling concessions at a basketball game, constructing a Homecoming float, "Whip the Mustangs," depicting a "Beaver" charioteer driving two "Mustangs," and presenting an aftergame dance in conjunction with I.R.L. During the annual banquet, held in the spring, a king and queen were elected from representatives of each Latin class. The nominees were chosen for their scholastic ability and service to the club.



Latin Club's float for Homecoming depicted a Roman chariot, the driver of which was "Whipping the Mustangs". The effort put forth by Fasces members in completing this float was typical of their support of all the club's activities.

I.R.L. Studies International Problems

International Relations League, a club which investigates foreign cultures, has been extremely active throughout the year. Holly Heid and Martha Robinson, participants in the Lewis and Clark College foreign exchange program spoke on Mexico and Peru, enriching the club's knowledge of Southern cultures. The club also jointly sponsored a potluck dinner with Panamero, Beaverton's Spanish club. They and guests from Wilson High School's I.R.L. were privileged to hear a speech by a consul from Venezuela. In addition, they worked on a aftergame dance, "Cupid's Night Out" which was presented in conjunction with the Latin Club.

F.T.A. Investigates Teaching Field

Future Teachers of America, a club formed for students interested in teaching careers, is an active organization at Beaverton High School. F.T.A.'s many activities included reports for the State Conference and various movies. A tour through Ridgewood Grade School greatly enlightened members on the aspects of grade school teaching. Reports and a film on the Peace Corps added to the year's activities. In the Spring, new members were installed.

Carolyn Aplanalp, F.T.A. President, spent many hours working to co-ordinate her club's activities. Conferences with the club advisor, Mrs. Knispel, and agenda planning for meetings are only a few of the duties of her office.

F.N.A. members are Row 1: Sharon Inman, Cathy Griffith, Treasurer; Carol Packouz, Secretary; Yvonne LaRouche, President; Bonnie Wilson, Vice President; Kathy Marshall, Historian; Donna Bruce, Row 2: Miss Panck, Barbara Weisfield, Anne Campbell. F.N.A. Year Marked by Elaborate Induction

Future Nurses of America began the year by co-sponsoring an aftergame dance, "Beethoven's Birthday Ball," with Gesellchaft. Following this event, the club members worked on a very successful Thanksgiving project in which needy families benefited from generously filled boxes of food. Numerous field trips to hospitals in the area, speakers ranging from practical nurses to psychiatrists, and a candle light induction ceremony rounded out F.N.A.'s activities.

F.N.A. held their first candlelight induction ceremony this year. Members who had excelled in service such as Vernice Klier were capped by President Yvonne La Rouche, while others held candles which denoted the qualities desirable in F.N.A. members.

The 1962-63 school year was Future Business Leaders of America's first full year as a functioning club and it proved to be a very active one. Among their many projects were the printing of the PERFUME PRESS for Girl's League, co-sponsoring of the aftergame dance "The Drag" and the introduction of the very popular Baby Beaver Booster Buttons. F. B.L.A. members worked diligently preparing the F.B.L.A. State Handbook and at the end of the year many members attended the State Convention held at Oregon State.

B.T.A.R. Encourages Party Support

Beaverton Teen-Age Republican Club included, in its first full year as a chartered club at Beaverton High, many activities aimed not only at promoting party support but also at furthering democracy and individual freedom. The club's agenda began with volunteer work for the Washington County Republican Party and then moved into the sponsoring of several very informative speakers and movies.

Skill and accuracy are the key words of Rifle Club. Members have exhibited great marksmanship this year as exemplified by the many trophies they have won at matches. Besides attending weekly meetings, members participated in the Fall Gallery match at the Portland Rifle Club in November, the National Sectional at Portland in February, and the State Championship in April. Members devote much of their free time practicing and developing their shooting skill.

Up 'n Atom once again experienced a successful year, starting off with a highly informative trip to the Primate research center where members viewed the various instruments and methods employed in the work there. Following this the club turned its attention to an aftergame dance, movies and various speakers. The biggest undertaking of the year, however, was the science fair, as always, a well-attended and valuable venture.

Ski B's Attain High

Between the months of November and March, Ski-B members could be found sleepily awaiting the six o'clock, Saturday morning departure of buses transporting them to Mt. Hood. However, after arriving at the mountain, their attitudes quickly changed as they became invigorated by the crisp air. Ski-B's, an interest club for ski enthusiasts, arranged ski classes ranging from beginners to advanced. Many members participated in these classes while others merely skiied for pleasure. In spite of being plagued with poor weather conditions throughout the season, the club managed to find enough snow to make the winter enjoyable.

Rhythm B's practice long hours before their routines are ready for presentation. Their new advisor, Mrs. Leota Ferrin, stresses perfection and refuses to allow the girls to perform until each dance is faultless.

Diversified Performances

Varied numbers characterize the Rhythm B's performances. In addition to being agile and coordinated, the talented girls must be able to learn new dances quickly as well as have a pleasant personality.

Pep, spirit, enthusiasm and talent are the key words that describe the Rhythm B's. This precision dance group time and time again brought honor and pride to Beaverton through its excellent performances. Not only did they dance at games and school assemblies but also represented Beaverton at other functions such as the Shriner's All-Star football game in August, the Crippled Children's Benefit at the Orpheum Theatre, and of course the Rose Parade. In addition the Rhythm B's added much color to the gala Spring Reign festivities. Advisor for the group this year was Mrs. Leota Ferrin, a long familiar face at Beaverton, who enjoyed working as much with the girls as they enjoyed and appreciated her help and guidance.

Included in the Rhythm B's this year was a new and very special personality; Kyoko Matsubara, Beaverton High's foregin exchange student from Japan. Having previously developed her dancing skills in her native country, she was a natural for this group—time and time again adding not only grace and talent to the routines, but also her charm. Pictured here with line captain Jamie Kirwan, on the day of her student body debut, she displayed the spirit and enthusiasm which made her such an able and pleasant performer.

National Forensic League Furthers Speech Interests

This year the B.H.S. Forensic League became affiliated with the National Forensic League. National Forensic League is an organization interested in preparing youth for leadership through speech activities. To become a member a student must be in the upper third of his class academically, must successfully compete in such speech activities as debate, oratory, extemporaneous speaking, student congress, and must also have given service talks at the school or in the community.

National Forensic member, Steve McLaughlin, delivers his argument during one of the numerous practice debates held throughout the year.

Beaver Blades, a newly chartered interest club, had a very successful first year of activitiy. This group was organized as a recreational club for anyone interested in ice-skating and membership increased greatly following the first meeting, until at the end of the year the roll call boasted seventy-five names. The only activity of the club was going to the Lloyd Center Skating Rink, where members could perfect old skills or learn new ones, every second and third Thursday.

Marty,
Lots of luck to a real neat kid.
You are one of the neatest boys I know. You tell good jokes and you make everyone feel at ease with you. You will brighten the halls at B.H.S. all your years through.
I am proud to be in the same class of '66 with you. Good luck in all the things you do for the rest of your life. I hope you will be around for a great long while. I hope to see you next year in some of my classes.
Don't let some of the things people say about your personality bother you one little bit.
We like you the way you are. In chorus the bass section wouldn't be anything if you weren't there to honor them with your voice. You have one of the nicest voices I have ever heard. I hope you use it to the best of your ability. Good luck next year and all the years of your life.
Have fun this summer and good luck.
Barb

P.S. I'm sorry if I wrote so much but there is a lot to say about you.

I didn't have time to write much the first time. I hope this makes up for it.

Sports

From the end of August to the end of May the air at Beaverton is spiced with the spirit, the excitement of interscholastic athletics. As the year begins, worried coaches put their teams through their paces as football, swimming and cross country shoot to the fore-front. As the leaves drop off the trees and the days become shorter, many students take to the indoors or the ski slopes with basketball, wrestling and ski racing their prime interests. With spring and long absent sunshine come baseball, track, tennis and golf, and a chance for the student to relax a little and perhaps dream idly of summer. As members of the Metropolitan league, Beaverton had another successful year with fall sports alone earning three trophies for the school's already bulging trophy case. Individually speaking Beaverton also did well with All-Metro selections a common occurrance and the presence of an All-Stater or two adding that certain touch of glamor. The excitment of competition, the thrill of victory, the heartache of defeat. The fine art of sportsmanship, the uniting of school spirit, the appreciation of a game well played. These are the benefits, the rewards of a fine athletic program. The fine type of athletic program that is Beaverton's.

Spirit and determination keynoted Duke Moore's varsity football squad this year, as it proved pollsters wrong by gaining the Metro league championship for the second straight year. With a formidable 7-1-1 record, the Beavers proved their strength by scoring 176 points to 104 against. Starting with a 21-7 win over Central Catholic, the Beavers began a keenly competitive season, pressed by hard fighting Milwaukie and Cinderella Hillsboro.

The men behind the Beavers' success: Jiggs Burnett, line coach; Duke Moore, head coach; and Bill Kang, backfield coach.

Senior halfback Jim Manary blasts through the line for a short gain in the Beavers' homecoming encounter with Milwaukie. The Beavers made three first half touchdowns stand up to edge the powerful Mustangs 20-19.

As the season got under way, the Beavers travelled to Astoria, defeating the Fishermen 29-7, in an exciting game sparked by the running of fullback Walt Stamm and the pass combination of Al Hubka and Rich Sheron. Against first rated David Douglas, title hopes became aroused as the Scots went down 32-7, encouraged by Butch Eaton who scored twice. The winning streak continued as Beaverton defeated Gresham 19-6. Homecoming, delayed by the violent Columbus Day windstorm, produced a close 20-19 win(d) over Milwaukie, followed by the only loss of the season to Sunset.

An encounter with Clackamas ended in a 14-14 tie, that encouraged the Beavers to a 20-0 shutout over Centennial. The final game saw Beaverton and Hillsboro vying for the league title, which the Beavers grabbed with a 14-12 victory.

Gresham Gopher Scott DeYoung seems headed for open field, as Beaver Jim Manary moves in for the kill. Manary was solid, the Beavers were solid, and a 19-7 victory resulted.

Varsity Overpowers Formidable Foes

John Erickson has him, and five other Beavers are going to get him—Sunset's Bill Heath, that is. Unfortunately, the Beavers' efforts failed to net a victory as the Apollos snapped a 15 game Beaverton win streak with a stunning 31-7 upset.

Hard Earned Wins Pave Way to State Quarter-finals

Rough play like this typified the Beavers' mid-season clash with rival Sunset. It was the Apollo homecoming that night, and the home eleven greatly pleased their fans by bombing the Beavers by a whopping 24 points.

Jim Manary, a top Beaver defensive back all year, shows his stuff on this play as he breaks up an attempted Democrat pass. The Demos had other weapons however, and with two second quarter touchdowns, topped the Beavers 12-7 in the opening round of the state A-1 playoffs.

Seniors Tom Danley and Walt Stamm try unsuccessfully to share a fumble as Jefferson's Lisco Ray comes up with the loose pigskin.

Following in the footsteps of last year's team the Beavers entered the state quarter-finals against the highly regarded Portland Interscholastic League champion Jefferson Democrats. Predictions had the Demos as heavy favorites and they did come out on top 12-7, but not before they were given the fight of their lives by a very aroused bunch of Beavers. Outstanding performances throughout the year were made by guard Joe Reid and tackle Norm Gillson, who, through their efforts gained spots on the first All-Metro team. Other team leaders, and also league leaders, included fullback Walt Stamm, who was second in league scoring; Milt Stout and Jim Manary, outstanding halfbacks; and Rich Sheron and John Erickson, ends.

J.V.'s Look to Varsity Future

Gaining valuable experience, the junior varsity football squad, coached by Wayne McKee, worked hard to establish a respectable 2-4-1 season record.

A 26-13 victory over Milwaukie was the highlight of the season, led by Randy Faltys who scored twice with 60 and 70 yard runs. Strong spirit coupled with a record turnout of boys produced a powerful team, and good material for next year's varsity squad. The defensive unit did exceptionally well due to fine efforts by tackles Jim Massey and Terry Thompson. In the backfield, Myron Wanless and Alan Bleizeffer added to the Beavers' strength.

Typical of the rugged play this year by Beaverton J.V.'s is this effort against David Douglas. Despite their efforts, coach Wayne McKee's eleven went down to defeat at the hands of the tough Scots, 33-20.

Frosh Gridders Small But Tough

Coached by Robert Hoefs and Max White, the freshman "Baby Beaver" football team established a three win and three loss record this year, while progressing greatly in its skill. A small but scrappy team, the frosh proved exciting competition for all of their foes. The team was sparked by the hard efforts of the offensive players such as quarterback Dave Heinrich, fullback John Castanette, and punter Greg Rice. Coach Hoefs believes many of the frosh will make the varsity team next year.

Harriers Nab Third in District

The varsity cross country team, led by co-captains Walt Bolf and Phil Hansen, sported an undefeated league record this year under the skillful direction of Coach Ed Bader. After compiling their perfect league record, the harriers went on to place third in district, and thirteenth in state competition.

The highlight of the season was the 31-47 upset win over district champion Hillsboro. Those usually seen running out in front this season included seniors Walt Bolf, Phil Hansen, and Terry Crawford.

Placing consistantly were junior Larry Layman, sophomores Steve Viale and Dennis Scott, who will pace next year's team.

Opening the season with a three way win over Central Catholic, Centennial and Oswego, the junior varsity Badermen went on to capture eighth place in league competition. The J.V.'s established a four win two loss season record while gaining valuable experience. Boys listed as strong material for next year's varsity team include Steve Fleming, John Tomlinson, Bill Kelly, Steve Beiswenger, and Dave Ward.

The Beaverton swimmers played host to Oregon swim teams, in the annual high school state swimming and diving championships. The modern pool provided excellent conditions, as the boys took fifth, and the girls second in state competition.

Swim Teams Have Successful Year

Freshman Jim Mason enters the turn of the 400 yard free-style event in the state meet. His efforts in this and the 100 yard butterfly produced two thirds in state competition and helped the Beaver boys gain fifth place.

The powerful Beaverton boys swim team, coached by Rod Harman, swam to its fourth district championship this year after a very successful season. In state competition, the swimmers, led by captain Scott Taylor, and freshman Jim Mason, placed fifth. The aquamen, who started slowly, progressed consistently during the season, and earned a formidable 12-1 league record. The Beavers were paced throughout the campaign by sprinters John Larson, Greg Nordling and Jim Rimmer, and distance swimmers Scott Taylor, Jim Mason and Larry Brown. The diving was led by Dale Swanson.

Junior Bryan DeFrees approaches the turn for the final lap of a 100-yard butterfly event, outdistancing Reynolds contenders. Brian won, as did the Beavers, 72-21.

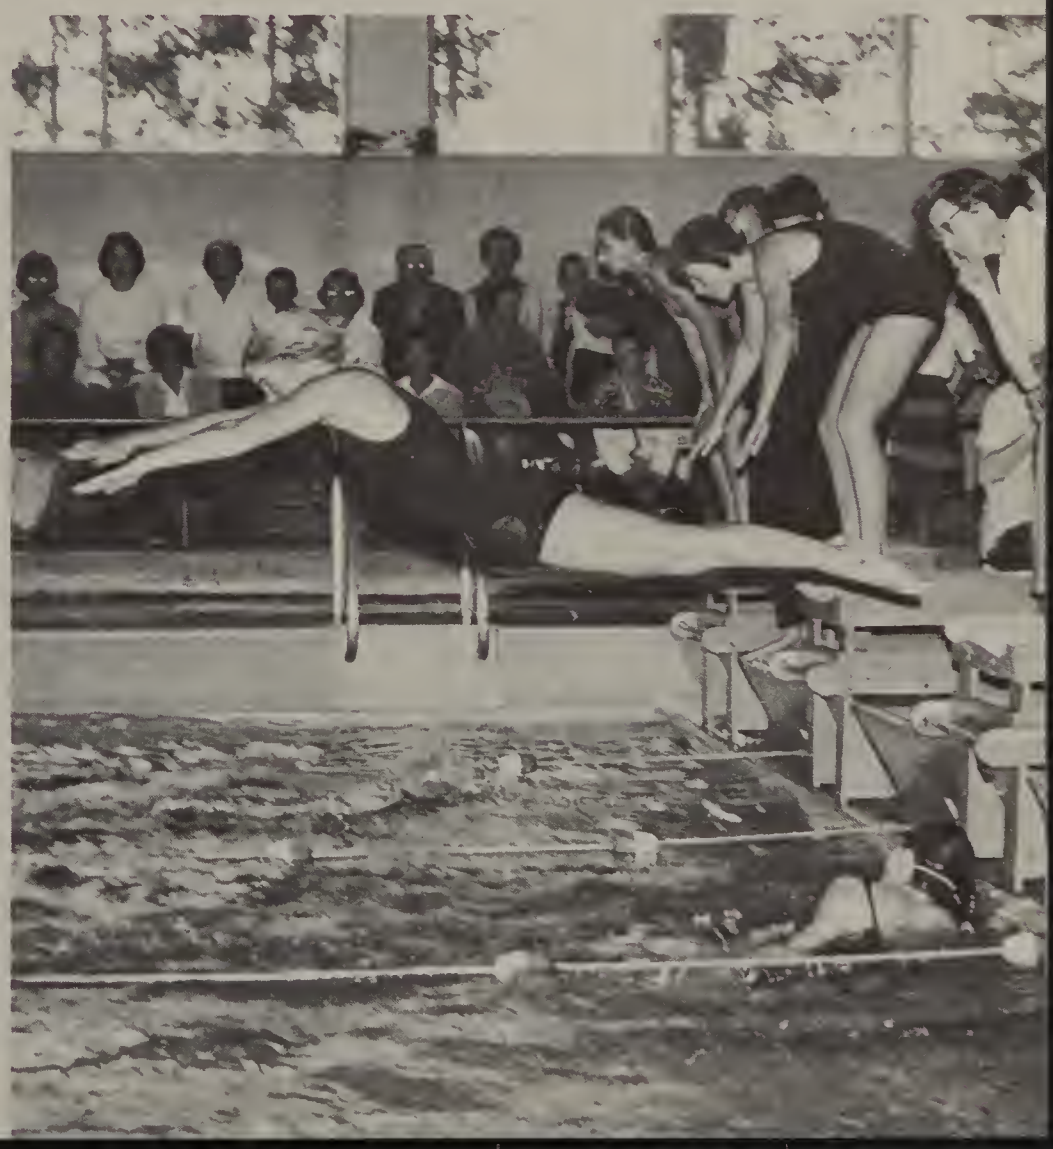
Girls Cop Second in State

Senior Gretchen Rittenour leaves the starting block with a substantial lead in the final lap of a 200-yard freestyle relay. The winning relay helped produce a 60-35 win over McMinnville.



Captained by Olympic swimmer Carolyn Wood, the girls' swim team captured the new district championship, and second in the state competition. The girls worked hard for a near-perfect 10-1 season record, losing only to Parkrose. During the season, consistent winners included Becky Indahl, who grabbed two firsts at state, Jani Penn, who gained double thirds, and Carolyn Wood, who also gained two firsts. The freestyle relay team of Gretchen Rittenour, Suzanne Gatch, Maryls Vickers and Cathy Carmichael produced consistent firsts throughout the year.

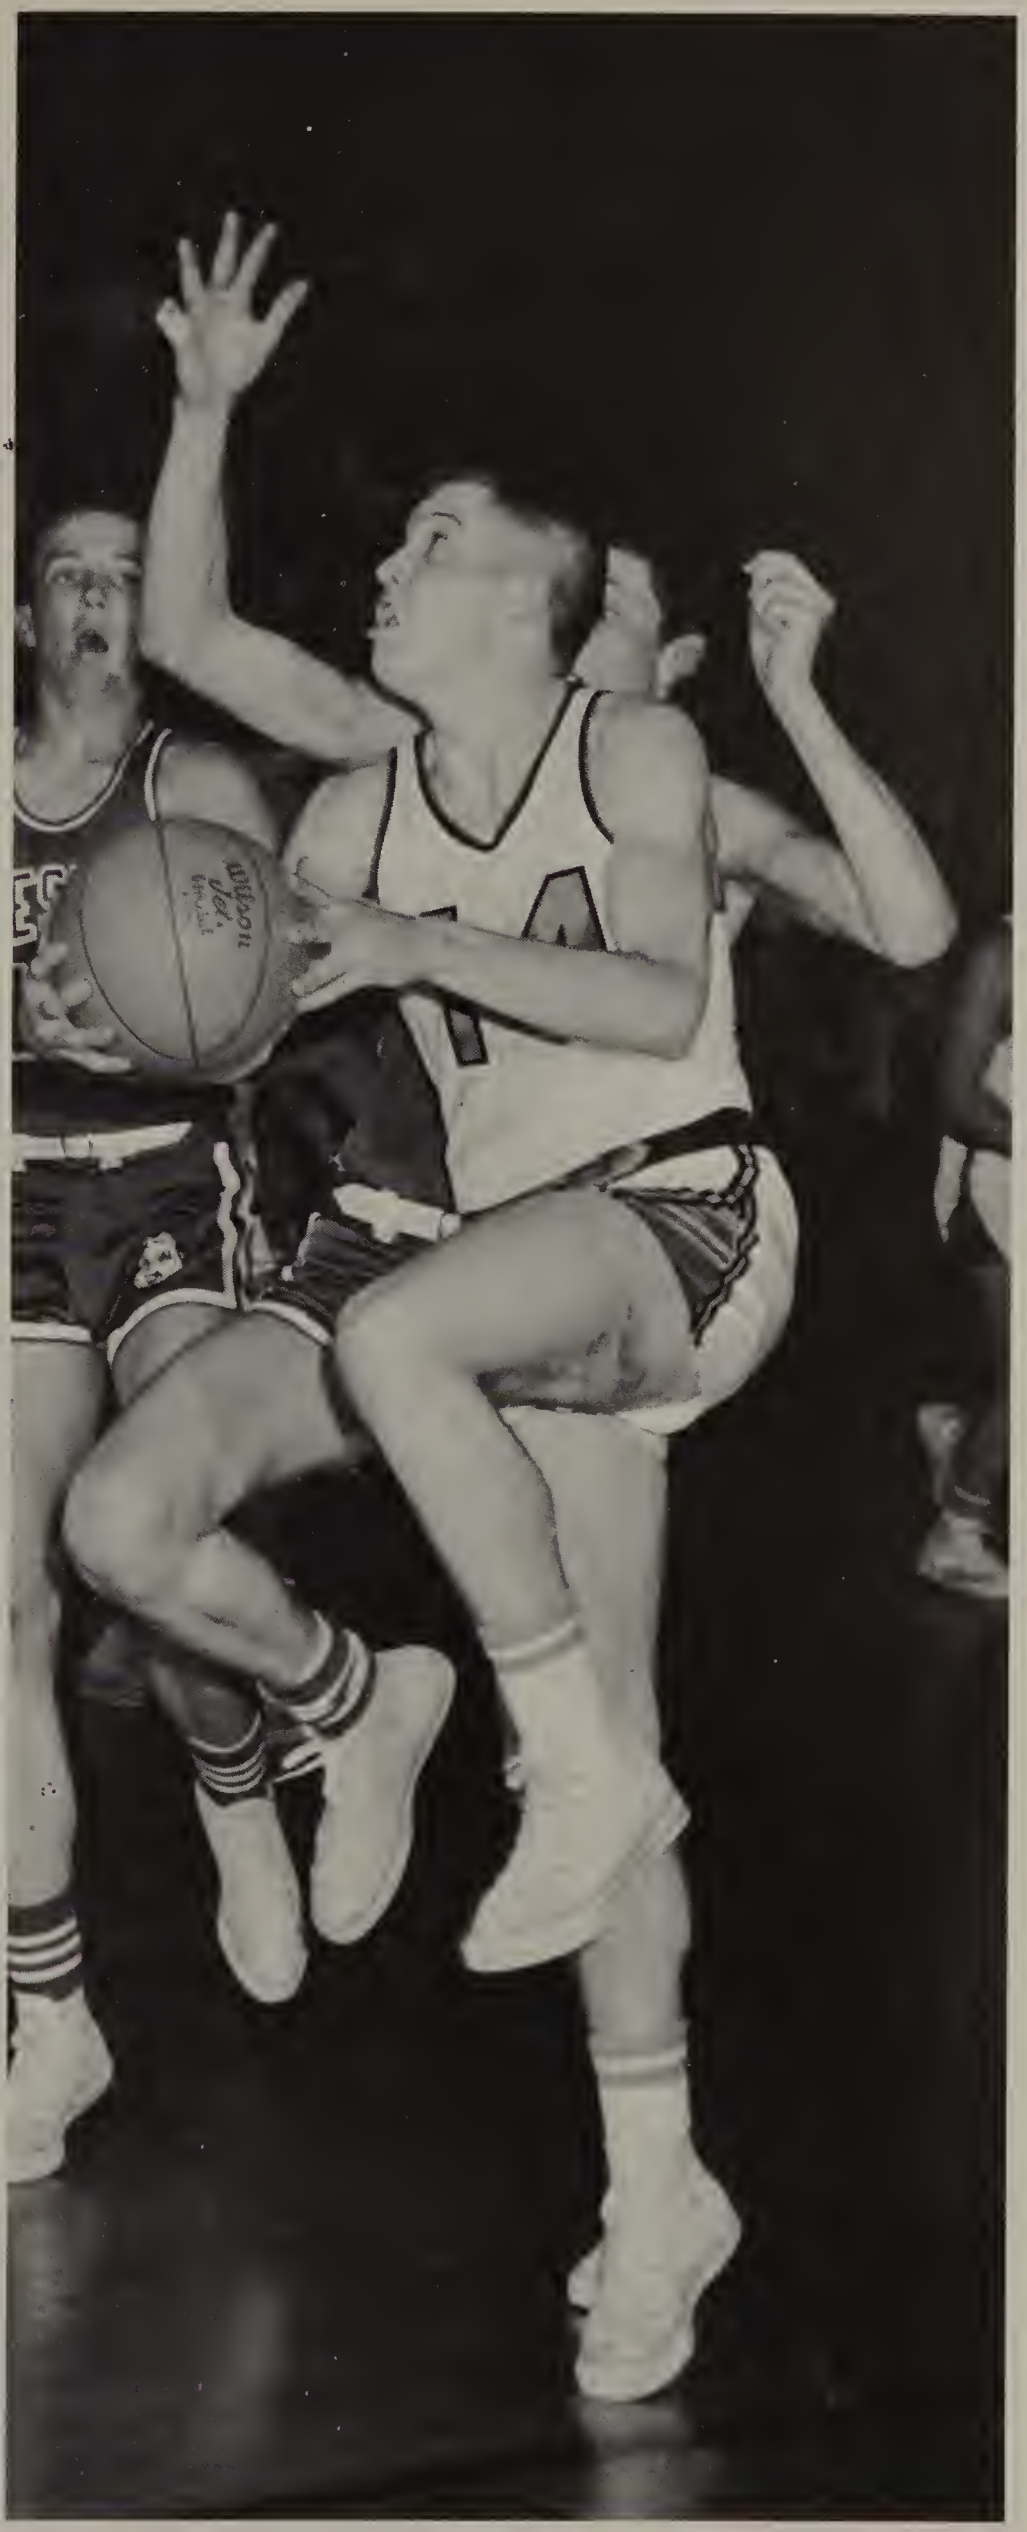
In an extremely close season that saw five strong teams in contention for the trip to the tournament, the Beavers finished third, one game away from the championship. Coach Souza's five began the season winning two, and losing two of their pre-season encounters. After polishing their skills during the Christmas vacation, the varsity hoopsters were ready for all opponents. Led by Rich Sheron, Gene Clark, Milt Stout, John Erickson, and Roy Berg, the Beavers entered a highly successful season. Early encounters saw the quint down Hillsboro, Centennial, and Central Catholic consecutively, before losing by one point to Astoria.

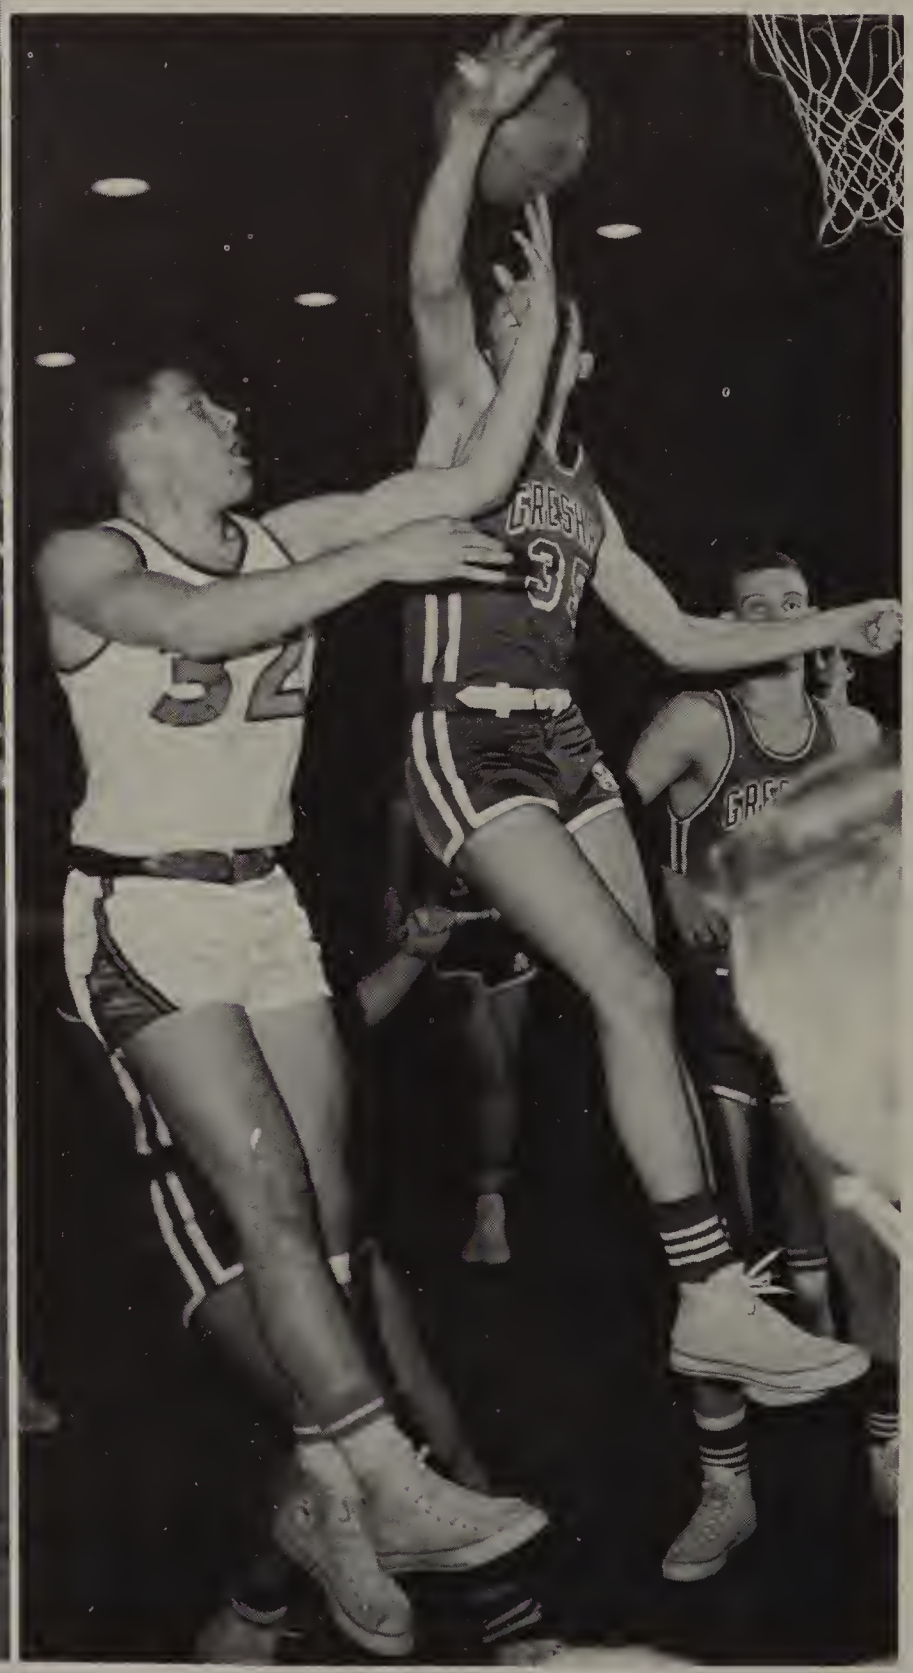


Senior John Erickson drives for two against Gresham. Erickson tallied five as the Beavers dropped the Gophers 60-37.

Twin Triumphs Over

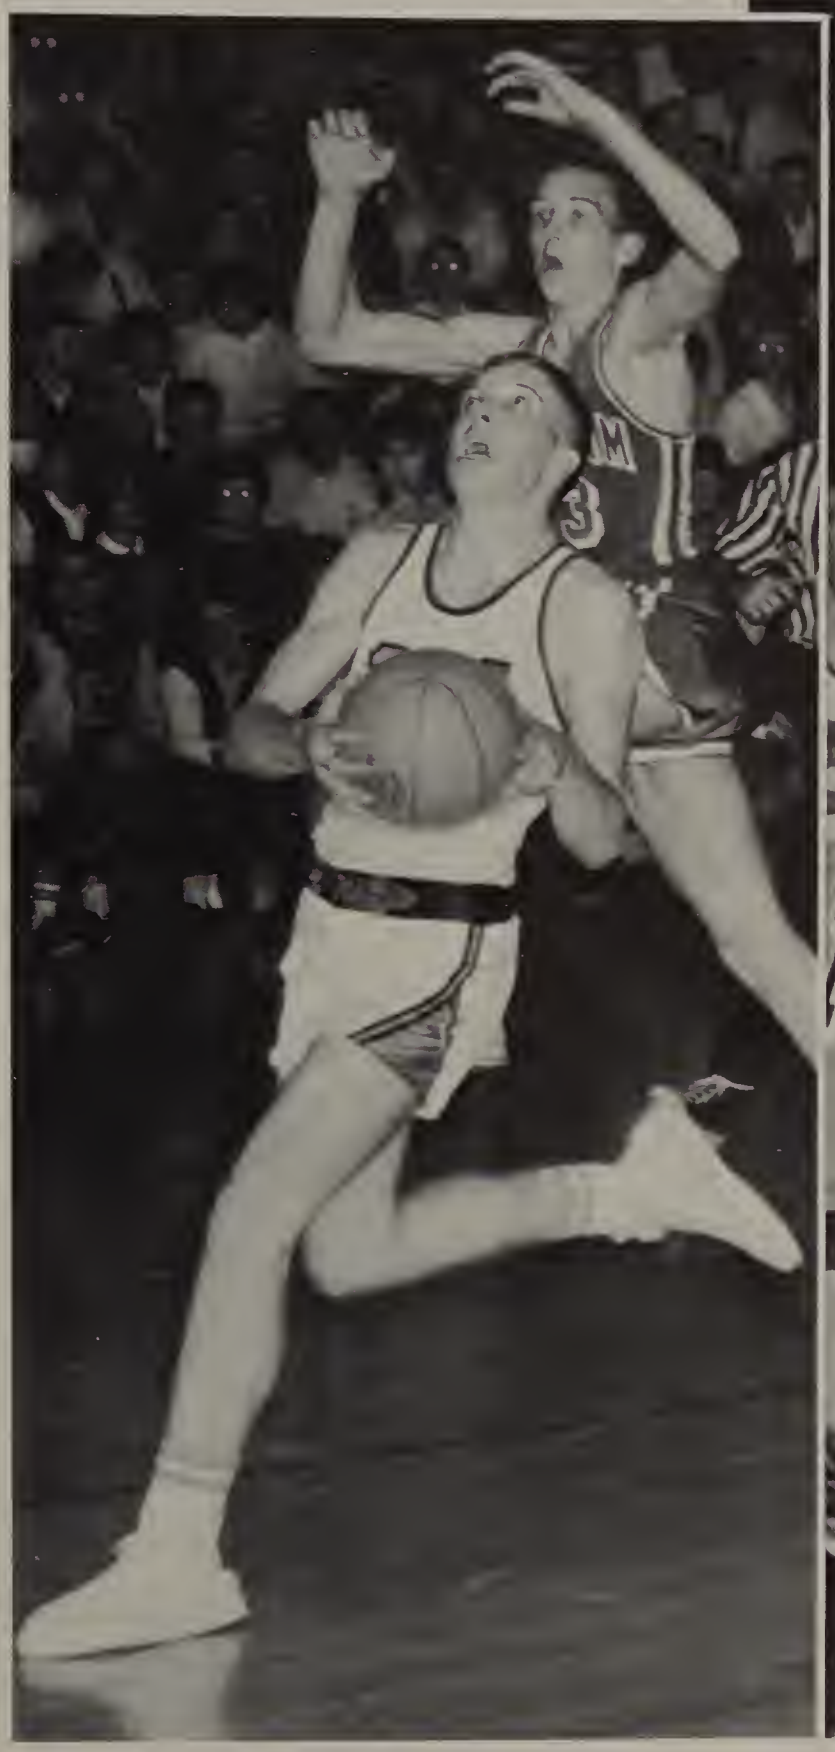
Rick Silva, all alone under the basket, flips in a lay-in against Milwaukie. Silva's two points, along with 43 others, gave the Beavers a 45-29 upset win over George Crandall's touted Mustangs.

Milt Stout attempts to break up a Gresham threat as he prevents an opponent from scoring. The Gophers were overpowered by the spirited Beavers 60-37.

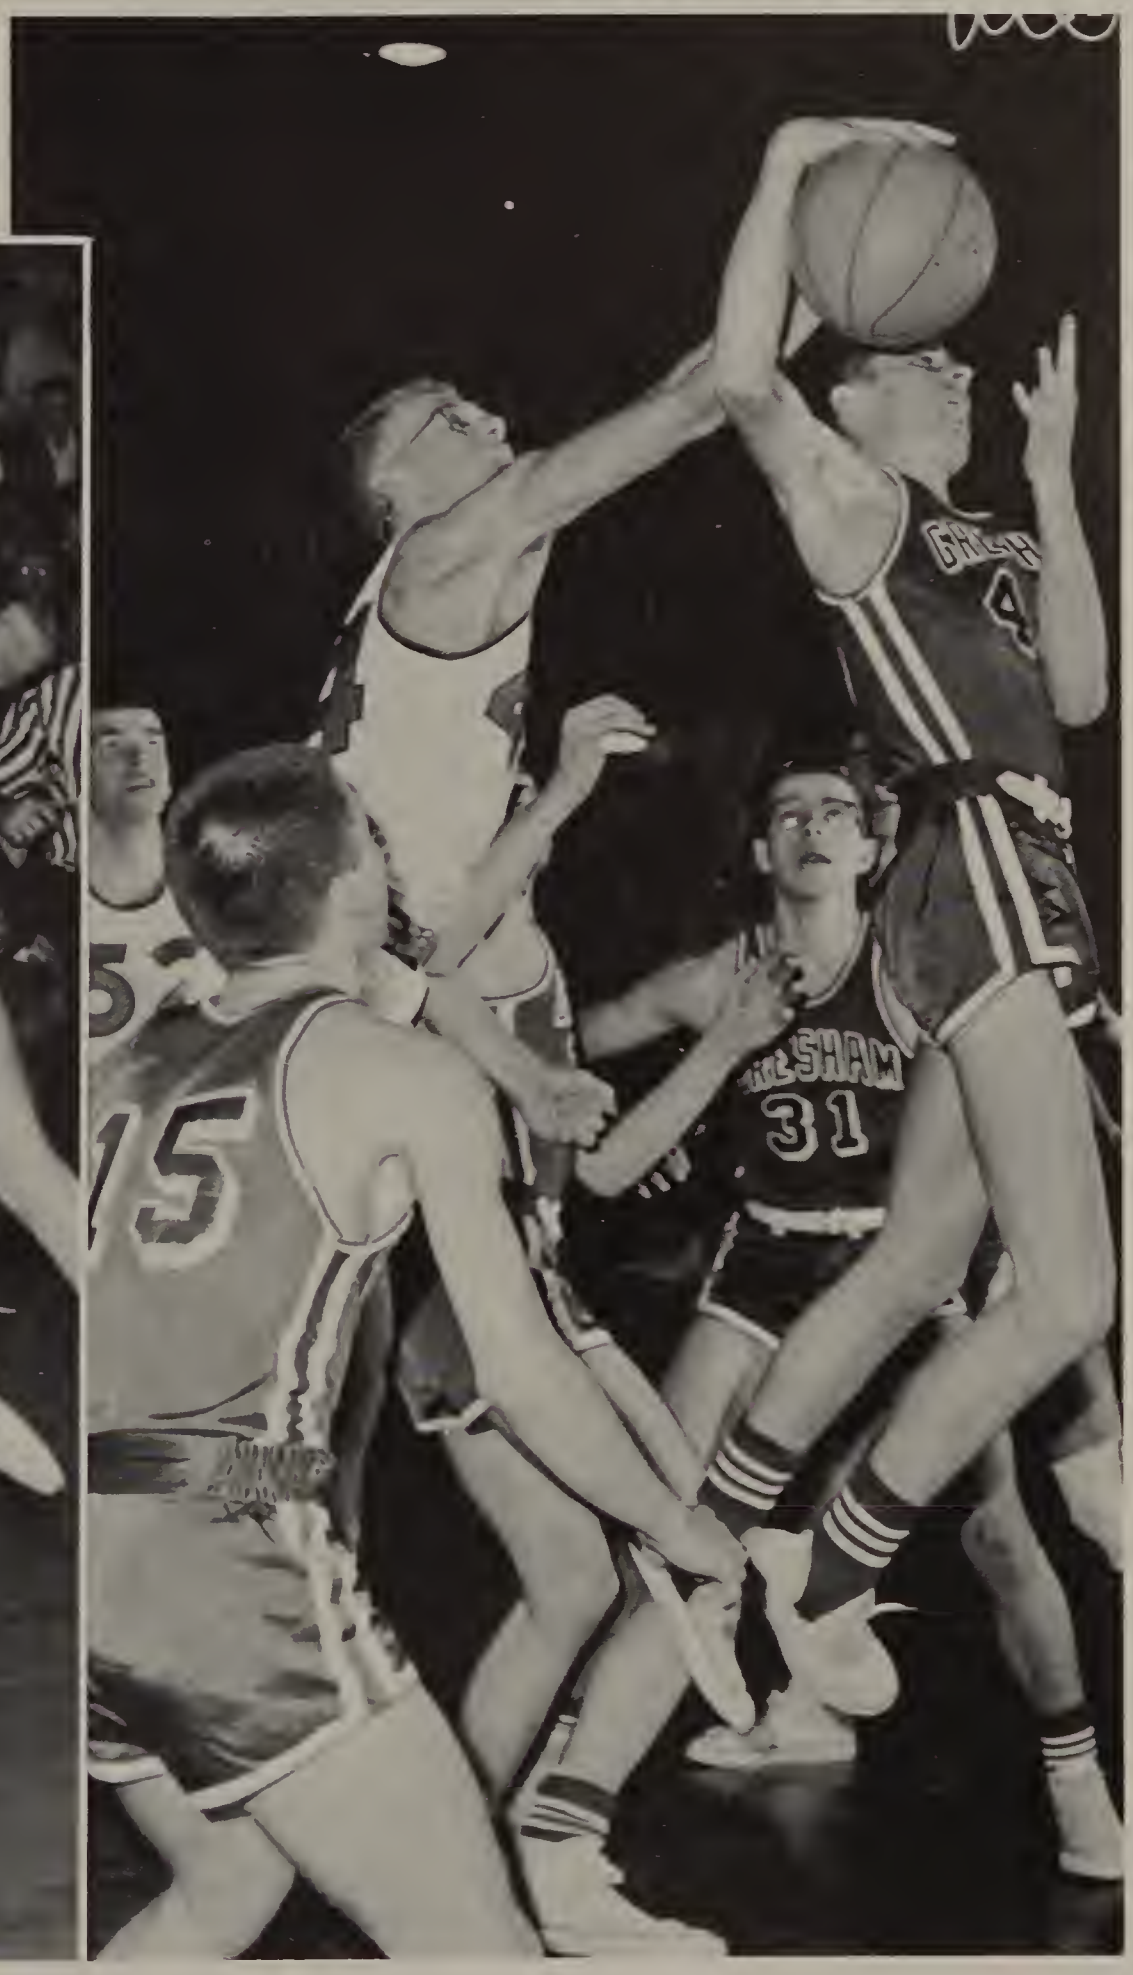


Milwaukie Highlight Season

It's two more for Erickson as the 6-0 senior sparkplug breaks through for another cripple.



Rich Sheron reaches through to break up a Gresham effort. Sheron's 20 points paced the Beavers to the easy win.



Late Loss to Clackamas Ends Tourney Hopes

Two more wins put the Beavers into a position that they held throughout the season; fighting for the top position with Milwaukie and Astoria. After gaining two more victories, and losing by three points to Sunset, the quint found the power to trample Milwaukie, 45-29. This victory, followed by three in a row, set the Beavers up as strong contenders for the championship.

Sparked by an extremely enthusiastic student body, the Beavers proceeded to win four more encounters, including a crucial game with the Mustangs. As their season drew to a close, and the Beaverton-Astoria-Milwaukie deadlock still existed; every game became vitally important. When the Beavers received an unexpected loss from Clackamas their hope lay only in having Astoria beat Milwaukie. Astoria lost the event, and the Beavers lost their chance at the tournament, by a single game. Players leading the Beavers in their quest for the title received recognition though, as Rich Sheron was elected to the first string of the All-Metro team. Gene Clark gained a spot on the second team, and Milt Stout received honorable mention.

6-5 Rich Sheron goes up for a jump shot over a Sunset player, helping the Beavers to pull out the crucial win. Gene Clark attempts to block a shot by a Hillsboro opponent. Gene's efforts combined with good teamwork produced a hard-earned victory over the scrappy Spartans.

Senior John Erickson drives for two against Gresham. Erickson tallied five as the Beavers dropped the Gophers 60-37.

With classic rebound style, Gene Clark snares one to thwart the efforts of Sunset's Jim Dick. Clark later fouled out but the Beavers pulled out the win anyway 50-49.

Sparked by accurate shooting, and a tight defense, coach Dick Quinn's Junior Varsity basketball squad gained 14 wins against 8 losses. The J.V.'s met increasingly intense opposition, but utilized teamwork with torrid scoring streaks to overcome most of their opponents. Victories over Clackamas, 56-45, and Milwaukie 42-34 were the most significant of the season, as these teams were highly rated. Consistently providing the points for the J.V.'s were sophomore Ron Johaningmeier and junior Roger Nelson.

The freshman hoopsters, coached by Robert Hoefs, drove their way to a substantial 8 win 10 loss season record this year. The frosh began their season strongly with three pre-season wins over Tigard, Jesuit, and West Linn. A 32-23 victory over Hillsboro initiated the season play that helped the Baby Beavers acquire significant experience. Key wins of the season included a 47-46 defeat over Sunset, and a victory by the same score over Milwaukie. Leading the frosh in scoring throughout the season were Dave Heinrich, Steve Rainey, and John Foster.

Beaver Matmen Hampered by Inexperience

Hard practice and experienced coaching produced a wrestling squad this year that provided formidable opposition for all foes. Under the capable leadership of Coach Rod Harman, assisted by Len Morelli, the grapplers constantly gave their all, which resulted in numerous individual conquests. The team lacked the necessary depth and experience, however, to earn a top won-loss record and 1-12 was the way it finished, a 34-14 win over Astoria being its only victory. Top individual performers included seniors Norm Gillson, Bruce Kerr, Captain Stan Morris and Junior Steve Schlisher.

Led by coach Bill Kang, the freshman wrestling squad worked hard to master the techniques of the sport. A fine turnout of boys coupled with strong determination resulted in a well-balanced team that consistently provided strong opposition. The highlight of the frosh season was its victory over Sunset, with a team score of 39-21. Promising frosh grapplers include Ralph Kind and Jerry Underwood.

Skiing

Sophomore Rick Rosetta negotiates a turn on a practice slolom course preparing for one of the numerous meets the skiers participated in. The Beavers fared well, placing second in state competition with Dean and Bob Whitman gaining second and sixth places respectively.

Skiers Capture Fifth District Title

With the experienced coaching of Jack Boden as a guide light .all Beaverton ski teams placed high this year in team meets. Beaverton's number one team paced all other teams by winning all four of their meets. Leading the first team individually were junior expert skiers Dean and Bob Whitman who placed one-two respectively in the Metro Giant Slalom in leading the Beaver squad to its fifth straight District Championship. Other first team members, Kin Lynch and Don Miller, also placed consistently high. The girls' team, new this year, also had a successful year, finishing first in all competition. Leading the girls were Pat Kennedy and Dana Rasmussen.

Seniors

Entering Beaverton as wide-eyed Freshmen in the fall of 1959 Beaverton's senior Class, the Class of '63, began what were to be four eventful, exciting years. Under the leadership of Presidents Mike Wherity and Gene Clark, the class, as freshmen, learned the "ropes" at Beaverton and began to develop a personality all its own. As sophomores with Dean Nielsen and Jeep Weichman at the helm, the class took over the spirit leadership of the school and in addition initiated an extremely successful sweatshirt sale that netted many valuable dollars for the all-important Prom fund. Dean Whitman and Tom Schultz guided the class through the '61-'62 school year as the seniors maintained their spirit supremacy and in the spring sponsored one of the most elaborate and talked about Junior Proms in years, "Villa D'Esta". As leaders of the school in '62-'63 the seniors changed their style slightly and with spicy spirit ribbons and a sit-down strike led Beaverton through an interesting, unusual year. A class of spirit, a class of service, a class of leadership. A class of intellects, a class of athletes, a class full of fun. That is, that was, the Class of '63.

When the final bell is heard, the final book returned, the final assignment turned in, seniors alike will feel a small twinge of sadness. For the class of 1963 it has been a good year; a year of excitement, a year of laborious jobs, a year of superiority. And well has the class of '63 expressed its superiority. In academics, athletics, leadership and spirit the class has worked for perfection and as a result has led the school in each. Academically speaking the seniors had few peers as they led consistently in blue cards, placed many class members in National Honor Society and sported five National Merit Semi-Finalists. On the athletic field the seniors' superiority was obvious as they monopolized the starting line-ups in all major sports placing many on All-Metro teams. Traditionally seniors are the school leaders, and this year's class was no exception. With its two Deans, Nielsen and Whitman, serving as presidents, the seniors guided the student body through an eventful, exciting year. After being the most spirited class as sophomores and juniors, the seniors dropped begrudgingly to second but nevertheless proved to be the most spirited senior class in many a year. And so, with June and graduation, Beaverton's smallest and yet most active class departs. Its departure is a sad one for the class has left its mark and will be sorely missed.

Seniors Rich Sheron, Dean Nielsen, Rich Eberhart, Butch Eaton and Tom Schultz gather at Tom's house to exchange ideas and complete the typing part of a Physics experiment. The boys did this throughout the year and found the sessions both educational and enjoyable.

"A day off from school," was the cry heard by many seniors at the thought of the impending Career Day. Yet all were surprised to find that the event was one of the most enjoyable and informative days spent away from school.

Underclassmen

Fighting for recognition, impossible to be ignored, loud, boisterous and full of fun — these are Beaverton's underclassmen — all 1490 of them. Unlike the small but powerful senior class Beaverton's underclassmen come in bulk with 380 juniors, 560 sophomores and 550 freshmen. They shake the rafters in assemblies, slow hall traffic to near standstills and give the cafeteria staffers near fits but all-in-all accomplish a great deal. For the freshmen, high school is an adventure from the first problem of finding their classes to the later discovery of hallways and rooms they never knew existed. For the sophomores it's great to have a class to look down upon. The juniors are the sophistics of the group for they're over the hump and have no where to go but up. And oh, what they'd do if they were seniors! But on the serious side this is a period of learning, a period of growth. It's a period when the underclassmen begin to acquire the characteristics that will eventually make them leaders of the school, and later, successes in life.

Vigorous, excitable, destined solely to success, marks the class of 1964. No longer bound by underclass restrictions, juniors immediately took advantage of their new position. In each project they began, they were determined to be excellent. Employing the experience gained from their last two homecomings, juniors produced one of the best floats in Homecoming history. Their unexpected snatching of the spirit trophy from the senior class exemplified the new surging spirit of the class. In assemblies juniors repeatedly displayed their enthusiasm and vigor. When juniors decided once again to combine their efforts, they presented an impressionable and unforgetable Prom. No Barrier could suppress even the academic interests of the class, not even the PSAT tests. One hundred sixty-three students took the tests which helped determine the value of attending college. Athletically the class is looking forward to view its varsity teams in action. Again next year it intends to be the best in every endeavor, and it appears to have a mighty good chance. This year may have only been practice for the class of 1964.

Juniors eagerly collect money for their aftergame dance "Curfew Consequences". As the second dance of the year, it proved a huge success.

The class of '64, in an extremely close contest, won the spirit trophy in the 1962 homecoming assembly. The seniors, who had won the award in '60 and '61, took the defeat hard and retaliated in the next assembly with a sit-down strike.

Industrious! That's the class of '65. Commencing the year with Homecoming activities, their first "Silly horse who tackle Beaver get chewed" the float exemplified not only their industry but ingenuity. Far-sighted sophomores already have been thinking about financing the Junior Prom through their money-raising projects, including "Isn't" their successful Freshman-Sophomore dance. Their cake and cupcake sales also helped to provide the necessary funds. The far-reaching cabinet has even selected a committee of ten students to create better methods of attaining needed money for future endeavors. The class is not only industrious but academic. One quarter the class of '65 was proud to display 32 Blue Card students. Sophomores as a whole are industrious, far-sighted, academically inclined and eagerly awaiting their chance to be upperclassmen. If they work as diligently as they did this past year, success will again be theirs.

New, different, young, and eager to learn, are Beaverton's Baby Beavers. At the beginning of the year, they were quiet, unassuming, willing to be led by their superiors. But this attitude did not prevail long in the hearts of freshmen. First they entered Homecoming festivities with a spark of originality by having a square world. They were eager to prove equality through helping boost spirit by selling pompoms for football games. Spurred on by Frosh Cheer-leaders, they enthusiastically supported both freshmen and varsity teams. Scholastically the class of '66 also did well as shown by 8.1 per cent of the class on the Blue Card Honor Roll. Baby Beavers have provided an excellent example for the other classes by their avid participation in school elections. During both campaign weeks the freshman class had the largest number of candidates. This year the class of 1966 has been a class of originality. They have brought new, fresh ideas to Beaverton's halls. Next year Baby Beavers finally will be able to look down on someone. If they sustain their air of originality, they should prove excellent leaders to follow.

Exhibiting their enthusiasm, freshmen girls try out for the Frosh Rally squad during their first class assembly. Although eight girls made the finals, only four were selected, with a vote of the class deciding the final cut.

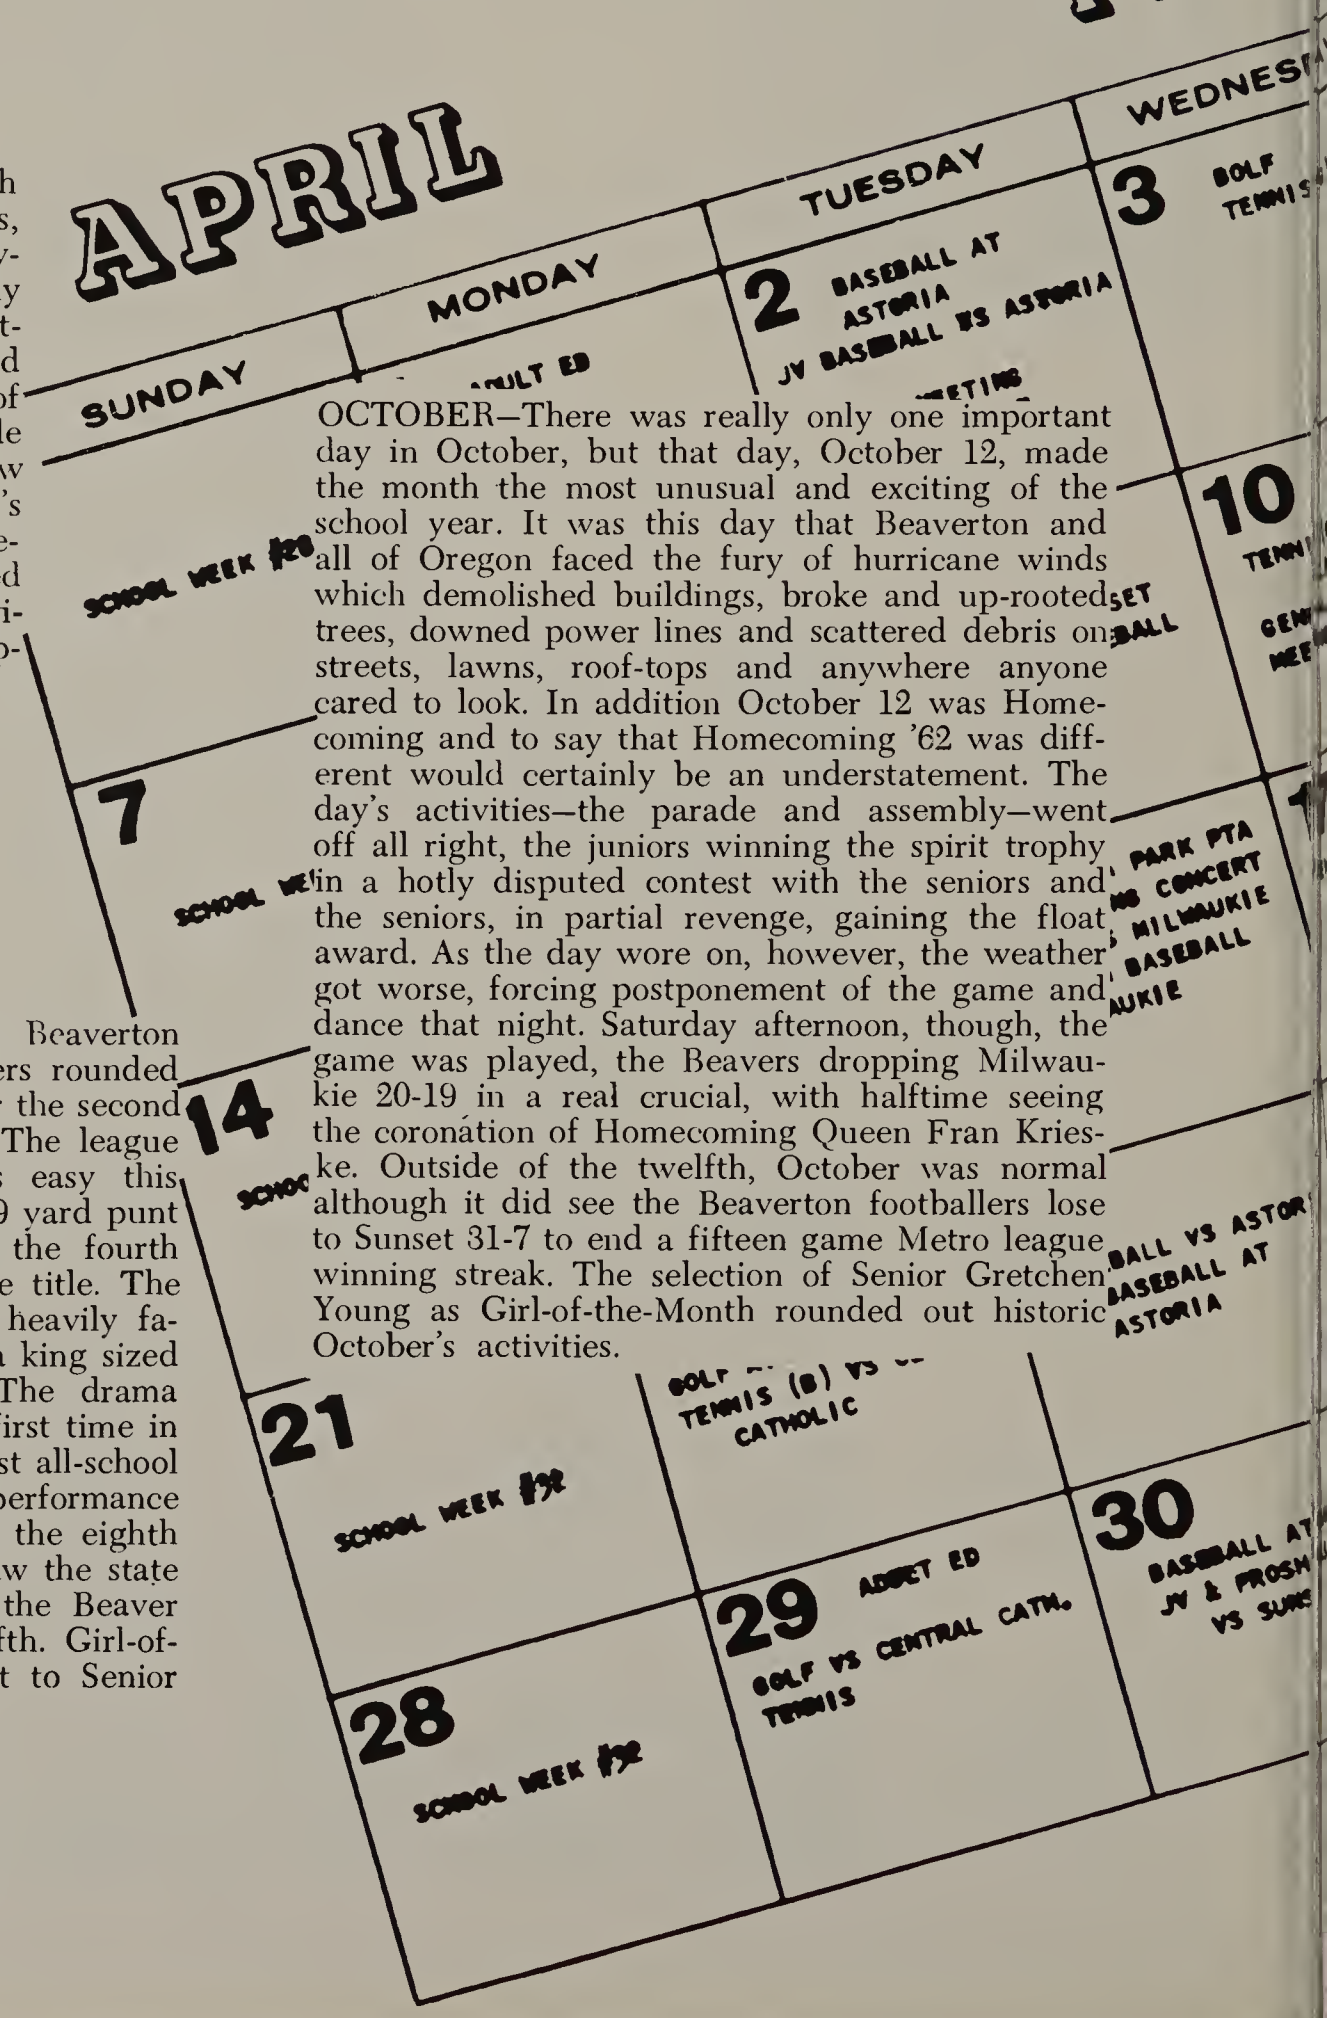
1962-63-- Exciting, Outstanding,

The 1962-63 school year was one of the most exciting and yet unusual years in recent Beaverton High School history. It had everything; everything from October's Columbus Day storm and the late-January snowfall to February's controversial dispute between the student body and the administration. It saw sophomores leap-frogging to Forest Grove, seniors strongly disputing the Homecoming spirit award and the addition of a long-desired Beaver Mascot for the wall of the East Gym. These were the high points, the things that made 1962-63 different from all other years. In the following paragraphs we shall review that year, hitting, we hope, what you remember most.

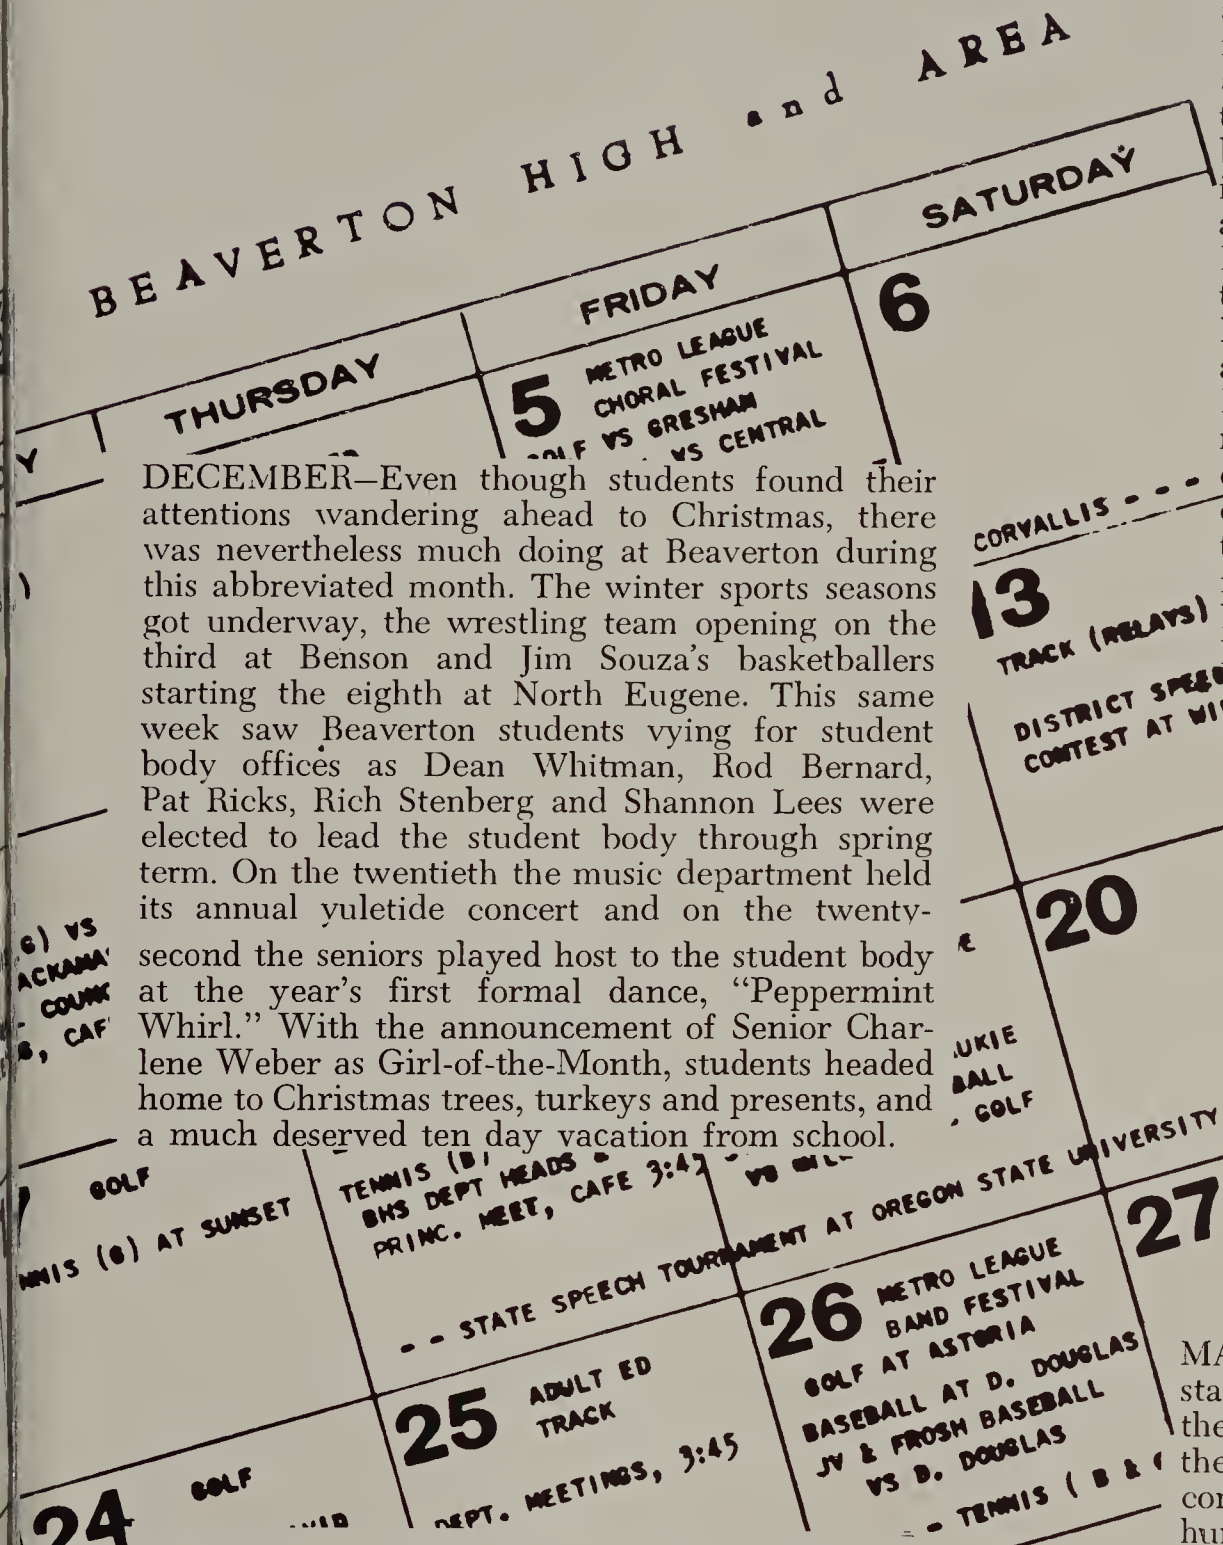
SEPTEMBER—September, as usual, began with traditional Hello Week as students and teachers, old and new, were welcomed once again to Beaverton. The first Friday saw the Hello Assembly and Hello Hop and an exciting intra-squad football game. As the month wore on, students and teachers began to adjust to the daily routine of classwork and soon Beaverton's academic side was once again running smoothly. September saw the beginning of fall athletic seasons as Beaverton's football, swimming and cross country teams began the campaign, which for all of them turned out to be extremely successful. September's activities were culminated by the selection of the September Girl-of-the-Month, Senior Mary Miles.

NOVEMBER—Football fever gripped Beaverton in November as Duke Moore's gridders rounded out the Metro league campaign and for the second year in a row finished as champions. The league championship trophy didn't come as easy this year as last, however, and it took an 89 yard punt return by Co-Captain Milt Stout in the fourth quarter of the last game to clinch the title. The Beavers entered the play-offs against heavily favored Jefferson and almost pulled off a king sized upset, finally falling, though, 12-7. The drama department got into the "act" for the first time in November as it presented the year's first all-school play, "The Diary of Ann Frank." The performance ran two nights, Thursday and Friday, the eighth and ninth. Saturday the seventeenth saw the state swim meet again held at Beaverton, the Beaver girls finishing second and the boys fifth. Girl-of-the-Month honors for November went to Senior Pat Ricks.



OCTOBER—There was really only one important day in October, but that day, October 12, made the month the most unusual and exciting of the school year. It was this day that Beaverton and all of Oregon faced the fury of hurricane winds which demolished buildings, broke and up-rooted trees, downed power lines and scattered debris on streets, lawns, roof-tops and anywhere anyone cared to look. In addition October 12 was Homecoming and to say that Homecoming '62 was different would certainly be an understatement. The day's activities—the parade and assembly—went off all right, the juniors winning the spirit trophy in a hotly disputed contest with the seniors and the seniors, in partial revenge, gaining the float award. As the day wore on, however, the weather got worse, forcing postponement of the game and dance that night. Saturday afternoon, though, the game was played, the Beavers dropping Milwaukie 20-19 in a real crucial, with halftime seeing the coronation of Homecoming Queen Fran Krieske. Outside of the twelfth, October was normal although it did see the Beaverton footballers lose to Sunset 31-7 to end a fifteen game Metro league winning streak. The selection of Senior Gretchen Young as Girl-of-the-Month rounded out historic October's activities.

Controversial. Remember...



DECEMBER—Even though students found their attentions wandering ahead to Christmas, there was nevertheless much doing at Beaverton during this abbreviated month. The winter sports seasons got underway, the wrestling team opening on the third at Benson and Jim Souza's basketballers starting the eighth at North Eugene. This same week saw Beaverton students vying for student body offices as Dean Whitman, Rod Bernard, Pat Ricks, Rich Stenberg and Shannon Lees were elected to lead the student body through spring term. On the twentieth the music department held its annual yuletide concert and on the twenty-second the seniors played host to the student body at the year's first formal dance, "Peppermint Whirl." With the announcement of Senior Charlene Weber as Girl-of-the-Month, students headed home to Christmas trees, turkeys and presents, and a much deserved ten day vacation from school.

FEBRUARY—February can best be described as "controversy month" as discontent between the student body and the administration necessitated a special explainitory assembly. Principal Erickson discussed the problems to the apparent satisfaction of most students and the trouble finally faded away leaving the door open for improved student-faculty relations. On the twenty-second and twenty-third, Beaverton students and the community were treated to "That's Entertainment," the student body variety show. The twenty-one acts drew raves from most who saw them and the show was hailed by many as Beaverton's best ever. Basketball once again kept the students' attention as the Beavers lost only one game all month and went into March as hot title and tournament contenders. The wrestling season ended in February, the Beaver grapplers finishing seventh at district. Girl-of-the-Month honors went to Senior Markita Price.

JANUARY—With school resuming on the traditional second of January students settled down to a long winter of study. Basketball started rolling in January as the Beavers opened league play and right from the outset looked to be title contenders. The student body perked up to this possibility and followed the Beavers through an exciting month, one that saw squeaker losses to Astoria and Sunset and a smashing win over champion Milwaukie. On the twenty-fifth students were treated to another kind of basketball as the Senior Mad-Hatters took on the Faculty All-Stars in the annual student-faculty game for the March of Dimes. As the month drew to a close, students received an unexpected holiday as Mother Nature dumped close to a foot of snow on Oregon, forcing cancellation of school for three days, running the total days missed because of weather to six. Senior Gretchen Rittenour, in an assembly in early February, was named the January Girl-of-the-Month.

MARCH—As March began basketball and the state tournament held most attention but when the Beavers were upset by Clackamas on the fifth, the tourney bubble burst and students had to be content with spring vacation at the beach or job-hunting. On the eighth the junior girls took on the senior girls in a special powder-puff basketball game for the A.F.S. program. The seniors won it in a hard fought struggle by the sky-scraping score of 11-8. "My Three Angels," the year's second all-school play and a comedy, opened a two night stand on the fourteenth. On the sixteenth the French Club presented its annual semi-formal the "Mardi Gras" as Senior Rich Sheron was crowned "King of Hearts" and Juniors Mickie Downie and Rich Stenberg won the mask contest. The week of the seventeenth to the twenty-fourth was spring vacation and students returned on the twenty-fifth to find it test week. Girl-of-the-Month for March was Senior Mary Keizer.

Because of deadline problems we could not include the months of April and May in the resume. They will be reviewed in the supplement, however, which will be mailed to the homes later in the summer.

The production of a yearbook is a long and tedious task and requires the co-operation and teamwork of many people. In speaking for the staff, we, as editors, would like to thank the many individuals and firms outside the school for their very valuable assistance in making this book possible. To Mr. James Powell and Mr. Hunt Prahl of the Mirro-Graphic Yearbook Company who co-ordinated the processing of the book; to Mr. Robert Freeman of the Valley Publishing Company who so effectively handled the printing of all copy; and to Mr. Hans Running of the Photo Graphic whose photography appears throughout, we extend our deepest appreciation. In addition, we wish to thank Mrs. Martha Pederson whose artwork appears in the Classes and Features sections; Mr. Gene Freese, Beaverton Athletic Director, for his invaluable assistance with the dedication; and the many businessmen of the Beaverton area, who, through their purchasing of ads for our student directory, THE BEAVERTALE, helped contribute to the annual's financial success.

In looking back over the year, however, it seems only fitting that most of the credit go to our fine advisor, Mrs. Kay MacLean, whose tremendous yearbook knowledge and encouragement guided us through the pitfalls of each deadline. For the seventeen staff members, who through their toil produced this book, no thanks is necessary. Our reward comes in seeing the 1963 BEAVER in your hands; the hands, we hope, of an appreciative student body.

Well Marty, you had so darn much blank space I just couldn't resist writin' some more with my oversexed green ink. Man — how cool can you get. But Marty — your life won't be complete until you've met Ruth + Scogseth + Milliken and go to a coupla swingin' Grant Keg parties. Man — that's LA DOLCE VITA — lemme tell ya - and you haven't lived til you've gone on a joyride with Scog in a 'hot' helicopter. Boy - that's livin' - Shees! Be Good? (no - Be NICE - like me ....)
